

The Moon Rules the Eleventh House

The Eleventh House is the house of acquisition. It contains all of the things you believe you need to obtain or acquire to be happy. It's the pursuit of happiness, but not the experience of happiness (which belongs to the First House). Friends are associated with the Eleventh House, but the original context of that term has shifted. Eleventh House friends are benefactors. These are the people who help you to reach your goals, attain your aspirations, and acquire what you think you need to be happy.

The Eleventh House is your ambitions and acquisitions.

The planet that rules your Eleventh House is what you believe you need to acquire to be happy. Your personal ambitions, aspirations, and dreams are really about embodying that planet, meeting its needs, and fully understanding how that Universal Puzzle Piece fits in your life. The first challenge is that you don't entirely believe that these qualities live inside you. You see them clearly in the outside world, and you believe that you need to go out and obtain them. Specifically, you believe that when you finally obtain those qualities, and realize your ambitions and your dreams, then you'll finally be happy. The Eleventh House is your pursuit of happiness; actual happiness belongs to the First House. But when you move into right relationship with the planet that rules your Eleventh House, you will realize that happiness is the journey, not the destination.

Everyone needs dreams. Dreams are what inspire you to take action. They can give your life meaning and purpose. Even impossible or unattainable dreams have value once you remember that they're not all-or-nothing scenarios. Your dream of winning American Idol probably won't come true, but what that dream is really about is the inspiration to sing and to make music. If you follow that call and begin to sing because singing makes you happy, the path could lead you anywhere. As you follow the path, you will set new goals and discover new dreams, and those dreams will become progressively more attainable. But remember that what your dreams are really about is expressing and meeting the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House. When you follow that star, your dreams can come true.

The Eleventh House is your benefactor.

The planet that rules your Eleventh House is your benefactor. A benefactor is more than just a friend; it's a friend with money. Benefactors are friends who are willing to invest in your happiness and your success. They provide material support to help you achieve your personal ambitions and aspirations. You experience your benefactors as other individuals, and often, the support they provide appears to come out of nowhere and to have nothing at all to do with you. But this is just the external appearance. Your real benefactor is the planet that rules your Eleventh House, and the amount of support and encouragement you experience depends on how well you meet the needs and learn the lessons of that planet.

You may not notice your benefactor because it doesn't always show up as a person, and the support you receive isn't always financial. Sometimes all you need to make progress towards your dreams and aspirations is to meet the needs of the planet that rules the Eleventh House. When you embody and express that energy and master those lessons, you advance towards your goals and your dreams get a little bit closer. Other times, because you have tuned into that energy, other people will show up in your life and provide you with encouragement and support. When you are in right relationship with the planet that rules your Eleventh House, your friends genuinely want to see you succeed. That may not translate into dollars and cents, but that's because that kind of support is priceless.

The Moon Rules the Eleventh House

Your subjective safety needs are your aspirations and acquisitions; your aspirations and acquisitions are your subjective safety needs.

Safety is your aspiration: you hope to achieve it. But you don't believe that safety is within you. It exists somewhere in the world, and you hope to acquire it. You believe that when you achieve your aspirations and acquire safety, then you'll be happy. When you maintain the minimum required balance in your Safety Need Account, you live your dreams and pursue your aspirations. Even if your goals are lofty and hard to attain, you still pursue them. The journey itself makes you so happy that the destination becomes less important. But when the balance in your Safety Need Account falls below the minimum level and you begin to experience your reality from First Kingdom/Victim Consciousness, your dreams are unattainable because you don't pursue them. You know you won't win American Idol, so you don't bother to sing at all. You set goals that are so high that you can't imagine reaching them, and then wonder why your life lacks any purpose. On a personal level, when you don't feel safe, you are unhappy with your life, but you lack the inspiration to do anything about it. You think the only way to be happy is to realize your dreams, and you mistakenly believe that happiness only exists at the destination. Having ambitions and aspirations is important because pursuing your dreams gives meaning and purpose to your life. You believe that when you have inspiration and motivation to pursue your dreams, you will no longer have to worry about protecting yourself to survive.

You are always objectively safe because your authentic Self is invulnerable, but until you remember this truth, you will look for protection from anything unfamiliar because it could be a threat to your survival. When something makes a deposit in your Safety Need Account, you create an attachment to it, expecting that you can always rely on it as a source of safety. The paradox of attachments is that they drain the balance in your Safety Need Account, but the less safe you feel, the stronger the attachment becomes. You must use the Present Moment Awareness Safety Meditation to reconnect with the truth that right here, right now, in this moment, you are completely safe. Then you can let go of the attachment by stating the truth that it is not your source and you can survive without it. You are the most vulnerable to creating attachments around your aspirations and acquisitions. Your dreams and ambitions are all about feeling safe. You believe that when you finally achieve your goals, you will no longer be vulnerable and you won't have to worry about survival. Often this shows up as the "fortune" part of the dream of fame and fortune. You must learn that true safety lies within you, not in the outside world.

You can become conscious of your attachments and learn how to monitor the balance in your Safety Need Account by engaging with your aspirations and acquisitions. Consider your dreams and aspirations. Make sure you include youthful dreams that you may have abandoned long ago because you felt they were unreasonable. Look at your ambitions, past and present, with fresh eyes, and notice how they all involve acquiring safety. When you pursue safety, you are energized and motivated, and on the way to happiness. Choose a dream. Dust off one of your discarded dreams or create a new one, but be conscious that the dream is really about experiencing safety. Use the Present Moment Awareness Safety Meditation to let go of all financial elements of your dream. When you remove money from the story, both as an obstacle and an objective, you will find new ways that you can pursue your ambitions. The more you manage your subjective safety needs and know the truth of your safety, the more your dreams and aspirations will inspire and motivate you.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your subjective safety needs and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your subjective safety needs and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of a current dream or aspiration: something that you hope to accomplish or achieve. What role does safety play in that dream?

How would acquiring more safety help you become happy?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you attempt to acquire safety? Where do you think you lack it in your life, and what do you need to do in the world to acquire it?

What are some things about your aspirations and acquisitions that matter the most to you? How do you feel when something disrupts your aspirations and acquisitions?

What is it about your aspirations and acquisitions that you believe can't live without? Do you actually need that to survive? Why or why not?

Your subjective safety needs are your benefactor; your benefactor is your subjective safety needs.

Safety is your benefactor. When you manage your subjective safety needs you receive tangible support that helps you pursue your ambitions and personal aspirations. Sometimes that support shows up out of the blue as unexpected money or opportunity, and other times that support shows up in the form of a friend who believes in you and is willing to lend a helping hand. When you maintain the minimum required balance in your Safety Need Account, you are surrounded by support and encouragement. Other people are excited by your ambitions and your goals, and they are eager to help you to achieve them. Money shows up when you need it, and so does advice, guidance, and introductions to people who can help you even more. But when the balance in your Safety Need Account falls below the minimum level and you begin to experience your reality from First Kingdom/Victim Consciousness, you have to pursue your ambitions on your own. No one in your life offers you encouragement, let alone financial backing. Opportunities do not tend to work out, and no matter how hard you knock, doors remain closed to you. On a personal level, when you don't feel safe, even your friends don't believe in you. They will probably listen to you talk about your dreams, but that's the extent of their support. They may not root for you to fail, but they don't expect you to succeed. You care about the support of your benefactors because they make it easier for you to achieve your dreams and ambitions. And you believe that when you achieve your goals, you will no longer have to worry about protecting yourself to survive.

You are always objectively safe because your authentic Self is invulnerable, but until you remember this truth, you will look for protection from anything unfamiliar because it could be a threat to your survival. When something makes a deposit in your Safety Need Account, you create an attachment to it, expecting that you can always rely on it as a source of safety. The paradox of attachments is that they drain the balance in your Safety Need Account, but the less safe you feel, the stronger the attachment becomes. You must use the Present Moment Awareness Safety Meditation to reconnect with the truth that right here, right now, in this moment, you are completely safe. Then you can let go of the attachment by stating the truth that it is not your source and you can survive without it. You are the most vulnerable to creating attachments around your benefactor. You especially focus on the financial support you receive from your benefactor, because you associate money with safety. This creates the illusion that the source of your safety (and the source of your money) is outside of you and beyond your control, and this is not true.

You can become conscious of your attachments and learn how to monitor the balance in your Safety Need Account by engaging with your benefactor. Think back on your life and identify the people who have supported you by helping you to achieve your ambitions and aspirations. For the moment, focus on individuals who gave you some kind of tangible assistance, financial or otherwise. Consider that whatever form of help they provided, that help was really about safety. They either helped you because of your ability to meet your own subjective safety needs, or they helped you by contributing to your Safety Need Account. Now consider how you engage with safety in other parts of your life. You will discover a direct connection between how well you maintain the minimum balance in your Safety Need Account and how much other people want to support you in your dreams and aspirations. The more you manage your subjective safety needs and know the truth of your safety, the more material support you will receive to pursue your ambitions.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your subjective safety needs and your benefactor resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your subjective safety needs and your benefactor resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

How has safety functioned as your benefactor? How has it provided you with material support to pursue your personal ambitions and goals?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you experience safety in the people who act as your benefactors? How do they embody it? How do they use it to support and encourage you?

What are some things about your benefactor that matter the most to you? How do you feel when something disrupts your relationship with your benefactor?

What is it about your benefactor that you believe can't live without? Do you actually need that to survive? Why or why not?

Your Emotional Guidance System is your aspirations and acquisitions; your aspirations and acquisitions are your Emotional Guidance System.

Your Emotional Guidance System is your aspiration: you hope to achieve it. But you don't believe that your Emotional Guidance System is within you. It exists somewhere in the world, and you hope to acquire it. You believe that when you achieve your aspirations and acquire feelings and emotions, then you'll be happy. When you allow yourself to experience the full range of emotions without interference or resistance, you live your dreams and pursue your aspirations. Even if your goals are lofty and hard to attain, you still pursue them. The journey itself makes you so happy that the destination becomes less important. But when you pursue only pleasurable feelings and avoid or suppress anything that feels uncomfortable, your dreams are unattainable because you don't pursue them. You know you won't win American Idol, so you don't bother to sing at all. You set goals that are so high that you can't imagine reaching them, and then wonder why your life lacks any purpose. On a personal level, when you avoid feeling your feelings, you are unhappy with your life, but you lack the inspiration to do anything about it. You think the only way to be happy is to realize your dreams, and you mistakenly believe that happiness only exists at the destination. Having ambitions and aspirations is important because pursuing your dreams gives meaning and purpose to your life. You believe that when you have inspiration and motivation to pursue your dreams, you won't suffer through negative, uncomfortable, or unpleasant feelings.

Feelings are just feelings: they can't hurt you because your authentic Self is invulnerable. But until you remember this truth, you try to avoid anything unpleasant or painful because you view those experiences as threatening. You believe negative feelings are caused by conditions in the outside world, but in fact, the conditions are the effect of your feelings. Feelings are how your Emotional Guidance System helps you to identify your current level of consciousness. This is important, because everything you experience is a match to that vibration. An unpleasant feeling warns you that you are tuned to a low vibration of consciousness. You can choose a better-feeling thought and tune to a higher level of consciousness, which will then create a new set of conditions. You are the most sensitive to negativity—and the most likely to turn down the volume on your Emotional Guidance System rather than change the frequency—with your aspirations and acquisitions. Your ambitions and dreams are really about acquiring good feelings. You believe that when you achieve your goals, you will finally be happy. But your idea of happy is not ever having to experience negative or uncomfortable feelings, and that's not how it works.

You can learn how to navigate using your Emotional Guidance System by engaging with your aspirations and acquisitions. Consider your dreams and aspirations. Make sure you include youthful dreams that you may have abandoned long ago because you felt they were unreasonable. Look at your ambitions, past and present, with fresh eyes, and notice how they all involve acquiring the ability to feel your feelings and navigate using your Emotional Guidance System. When you pursue your feelings without resistance and simply turn towards better-feeling thoughts, you are energized and motivated, and on the way to happiness. Choose a dream. Dust off one of your discarded dreams or create a new one, but be conscious that the dream is really about learning to navigate using your Emotional Guidance System. Let your feelings be your guide as you find the path that leads towards your dream. The more you are willing to feel your feelings and listen to your Emotional Guidance System, the more your dreams and aspirations will inspire and motivate you.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your Emotional Guidance System and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your Emotional Guidance System and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of a current dream or aspiration: something that you hope to accomplish or achieve. What role do your feelings and emotions play in that dream?

How would acquiring more feelings and emotions help you become happy?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you attempt to acquire your Emotional Guidance System? Where do you think you lack it in your life, and what do you need to do in the world to acquire it?

Think of an example of one of your dreams or aspirations. Where do feelings and emotions show up in that dream? What role do they play? What would you feel when you realized your dream?

What feelings do you usually experience with your aspirations and acquisitions? When do you experience these feelings?

What feelings do you tend to avoid with your aspirations and acquisitions? When do you experience these feelings?

On a scale of 1 to 10, with 10 being the most intense, how much do you feel your feelings with your aspirations and acquisitions? What would happen if you turned up the volume on your feelings?

Your Emotional Guidance System is your benefactor; your benefactor is your Emotional Guidance System.

Your Emotional Guidance System is your benefactor. When you feel your feelings, you receive tangible support that helps you pursue your ambitions and personal aspirations. Sometimes that support shows up out of the blue as unexpected money or opportunity, and other times that support shows up in the form of a friend who believes in you and is willing to lend a helping hand. When you allow yourself to experience the full range of emotions without interference or resistance, you are surrounded by support and encouragement. Other people are excited by your ambitions and your goals, and they are eager to help you to achieve them. Money shows up when you need it, and so does advice, guidance, and introductions to people who can help you even more. But when you pursue only pleasurable feelings and avoid or suppress anything that feels uncomfortable, you have to pursue your ambitions on your own. No one in your life offers you encouragement, let alone financial backing. Opportunities do not tend to work out, and no matter how hard you knock, doors remain closed to you. On a personal level, when you avoid feeling your feelings, even your friends don't believe in you. They will probably listen to you talk about your dreams, but that's the extent of their support. They may not root for you to fail, but they don't expect you to succeed. You care about the support of your benefactors because they make it easier for you to achieve your dreams and ambitions. And you believe that when you achieve your goals, you won't suffer through negative, uncomfortable, or unpleasant feelings.

Feelings are just feelings: they can't hurt you because your authentic Self is invulnerable. But until you remember this truth, you try to avoid anything unpleasant or painful because you view those experiences as threatening. You believe negative feelings are caused by conditions in the outside world, but in fact, the conditions are the effect of your feelings. Feelings are how your Emotional Guidance System helps you to identify your current level of consciousness. This is important, because everything you experience is a match to that vibration. An unpleasant feeling warns you that you are tuned to a low vibration of consciousness. You can choose a better-feeling thought and tune to a higher level of consciousness, which will then create a new set of conditions. You are the most sensitive to negativity—and the most likely to turn down the volume on your Emotional Guidance System rather than change the frequency—with your benefactor. You only recognize support when it is positive and pleasant and enjoyable. You don't always realize that support can feel uncomfortable and negative, too. That's the support that tells you you're heading in the wrong direction and need to change your course. You can learn how to navigate using your Emotional Guidance System by engaging with your benefactor. Think back on your life and identify the people who have supported you by helping you to achieve your ambitions and aspirations. For the moment, focus on individuals who gave you some kind of tangible assistance, financial or otherwise. Consider that whatever form of help they provided, that help was really about your feelings and emotions. They either helped you because of your feelings and emotions, or they helped you by making you aware of your feelings and emotions so that you could engage your Emotional Guidance System and adjust your course. Now consider how you notice your feelings and emotions in other parts of your life. You will discover a direct connection between how well you feel your feelings and navigate using your Emotional Guidance System and how much other people want to support you in your dreams and aspirations. The more you are willing to feel your feelings and listen to your Emotional Guidance System, the more material support you will receive to pursue your ambitions.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your Emotional Guidance System and your benefactor resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your Emotional Guidance System and your benefactor resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

How has your Emotional Guidance System functioned as your benefactor? How has it provided you with material support to pursue your personal ambitions and goals?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you experience feelings and emotions in the people who act as your benefactors? How do they embody feelings and emotions? How do they use feelings and emotions to support and encourage you?

What feelings do you experience with your benefactor? When do you experience them?

What feelings do you avoid with your benefactor? When do you experience them?

On a scale of 1 to 10, with 10 being the most intense, how much do you feel your feelings with your benefactor? What would happen if you turned up the volume?

The Moon, the Ruler of your Eleventh House in Houses

The house occupied by the Ruler of the Eleventh House shows where you look for happiness. This is where you pursue your ambitions and your aspirations. You make use of the resources available in this house to acquire the things that you believe will make you happy and to realize your personal goals and dreams.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video on the Moon that explores the house that the Moon, the Ruler of your Eleventh House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by the Moon, the Ruler of your Eleventh House. Now, revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience the Moon as the ruler of your Eleventh House, and notice how the house the Moon occupies influences your understanding.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the First House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your First House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to manage your subjective safety needs, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to experience your feelings and emotions, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to pursue your dreams, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to attract the support of benefactors, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Second House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Second House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to manage your subjective safety needs. You will spend money and use your talents to experience your feelings and emotions. You will spend money and use your talents to pursue your dreams. And you will spend money and use your talents to attract the support of benefactors. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Third House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Third House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to manage your subjective safety needs, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to experience your feelings and emotions, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to pursue your dreams, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to attract the support of benefactors, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Fourth House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Fourth House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your home, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you manage your subjective safety needs, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you experience your feelings and emotions, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you pursue your dreams, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you attract the support of benefactors, because it's personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy may disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Fifth House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Fifth House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to manage your subjective safety needs, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to experience your feelings and emotions, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to pursue your dreams, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to attract the support of benefactors, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Sixth House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Sixth House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to manage your subjective safety needs, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to experience your feelings and emotions, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to pursue your dreams, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to attract the support of benefactors, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Seventh House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Seventh House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to manage your subjective safety needs for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to experience your feelings and emotions for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to pursue your dreams for you and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to attract the support of benefactors for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Eighth House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Eighth House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to manage your subjective safety needs. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to experience your feelings and emotions. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to pursue your dreams. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to attract the support of benefactors. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Ninth House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Ninth House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors.

You always require new information to manage your subjective safety needs because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to experience your feelings and emotions because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to pursue your dreams because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to attract the support of benefactors because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the Tenth House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Tenth House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to manage your subjective safety needs, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to experience your feelings and emotions, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to pursue your dreams, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to attract the support of benefactors, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the Eleventh House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to manage your subjective safety needs so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to experience your feelings and emotions so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to pursue your dreams so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to attract the support of benefactors so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the Twelfth House

With The Moon, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your subjective safety needs, your Emotional Guidance System, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to manage your subjective safety needs, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to experience your feelings and emotions, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to pursue your dreams, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to attract the support of benefactors, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.