

Mars Rules the First House

The First House is all about you, personally. It's your health, your happiness, your personality, and how you show up and interact with the world.

It is arguably the most important house in the chart because when you get right down to it, the only thing that really matters is happiness. The planet that rules the First House is the Ruler of the Chart, and this planet is the most important planet to you because it offers the most direct path to your happiness.

The First House is your avatar.

Imagine if life were a giant video game. You navigate the virtual reality through an avatar—an animated surrogate that allows you to explore the world. You interact with other players in the game through their avatars. Your avatar is how you appear to the world. It's the qualities other people see in your personality, and it's your physical appearance. Think of your avatar as your online dating profile. It's the image that you project to the world in the hope that other people will find you attractive. Your avatar may be quite different from your authentic "Big S" Self (Sun) or your "little s" self, the character you play in the game (Mars).

You appear to the world as the embodiment of the expression of the planet that rules your First House. Other people see this quality most clearly in your personality. What other people really see is a reflection of themselves, because your avatar is a mirror. They project their issues and judgments about the planet that rules your First House on you. In a sense, the world tries to "gaslight" you, because other people often accuse you of exhibiting their problems. Of course, the more you are out of alignment with the planet that rules your First House, the more these judgments will bother you because your issues have a lot in common with their issues.

When you are in Right Relationship with the planet that rules your First House, other people are attracted to you. They tend to see your best qualities, and they have a good impression of you. This is nice, but it's not something you can control. And what other people think about you is none of your business.

On a personal level, you can influence your physical appearance, including your choice of clothing, hair, grooming, hygiene, and personal style. To a lesser degree and over time, you can alter the appearance of your physical body through diet and exercise. Each of these elements affects how other people see you, but what matters the most is how you see yourself. If you don't like what you see in the mirror, other people won't like it, either.

The First House is your happiness.

The secret of happiness—or at least the secret of your happiness—lies in the First House. The planet that rules your first house is your happiness, and the first step towards becoming truly happy is to move into Right Relationship with that planet and let it guide you on your path. Happiness doesn't exist in the outer world, however. Happiness is an inside job. It's a consequence of your level of consciousness, and directly related to how well you embody the truth of your authentic Self. The planet that rules your first house will point you in the right direction.

When you look for happiness in the outside world, you base your happiness on getting what you want. If things don't turn out the way you expect, you won't be happy, and even when you do get what you want, the pleasure and satisfaction you experience don't last. The source of true happiness lives within you, and it's bulletproof. No matter what the conditions may be in your life, and no matter what emotion you may be experiencing, you are still happy. Happiness is a context that contains the full range of feelings, emotions, and experiences. The experience of happiness is better than you can imagine, but it doesn't feel the way you expect it to feel. And happiness does not mean that you enjoy every moment of your life. The highs only have value when compared with the lows.

On a personal level, you associate happiness with your hobbies and interests because you experience pleasure when you engage in these activities. But consider that while you are happy when you pursue the things that interest you, the moment-to-moment experience of these pursuits is not always enjoyable. Struggle, frustration, obstacles, and any number of challenges are often associated with how you would like to spend your time and energy. But you welcome these when they're associated with your interests because the bigger context is happiness. When you learn to live the rest of your life from this context, you will experience true happiness.

Mars Rules the First House

Your ego is your avatar; your avatar is your ego.

You appear to the world as the embodiment of your ego, and everyone you meet projects their judgments, issues, and expectations of the character you play in the story of your life—and how your character shows up in their story—on you. Other people see how well you are performing your character, and that plays an important part in whether or not they have a favorable impression of you. But remember that what other people see in you is a distorted reflection of their own issues. If they are not confident in their own character, they will point their fingers and criticize your performance. This isn't really about you, but the less you understand your ego and the character you play, the more it will happen. When you are confident of your identity and don't need to prove yourself to others, other people have a good impression of you; they tend to like you and to notice your best qualities. But when you are unsure of yourself and have to defend your choices and prove that you are right, other people will not be attracted to you; they will focus on your flaws and shortcomings and will have little respect or esteem for you. This will have a negative impact on your physical appearance. When you lack self-confidence you won't look your best, and may even appear sloppy and unkempt. You care about your physical appearance and want to look your best because you believe that the better you look, the more people will like you, and when people like you, they won't challenge or attack you and you won't have to defend yourself.

Right Relationship with your ego gives you the experience of Power. You have unlimited self-confidence and you are secure in both the character you are playing in your life and in the quality of the performance that you're giving. But until you find this balance, you will over-identify with your character and believe that your identity is limited to your physical body. You fear the death of the ego/body, and this means you must always be right because the smallest mistake could result in your destruction. You must remember that the real you is the actor playing your character. No matter what happens to your character, the actor, your authentic Self, will survive. When you let go of the need to defend your character choices, you will discover it's okay to make mistakes, and that you don't always have to be right. This lesson is especially challenging for you with your avatar, because you identify personally with your outer appearance, and feel the need to protect and defend it. You are inclined to view observations about your appearance as personal attacks. You may find that you waste a great deal of energy worrying about what other people think of how you look, something that is explicitly none of your business.

You can learn about your "little s" self and the character you play by engaging with your physical appearance. Change your hair. Try different styles and colors of clothing, or just upgrade your wardrobe and limit how often you wear old T-shirts and sweatpants, even around the house. Spend a few extra minutes on your daily grooming, and notice how each change or improvement makes you feel. When you find a look that accurately describes your "little s" self, it will be obvious to you. You will feel more self-confident, and also more relaxed. When you look the part, it's much easier (and more fun) to play the part. The more confident you are in your character and the less you have to prove, the more other people will like you and recognize your best qualities.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your ego and your avatar resonated the most with you?

Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your ego and your avatar resonated the least with you?

What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What qualities do you want other people to notice in you the most? Who do you want other people to see you as?

What kind of first impression do you think you make when you meet someone? Who do other people think you are when they meet you?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you think your ego and your “little s” self expresses in your personality and how you appear to the world?

How does your ego and your “little s” self show up in your physical appearance?

What is it about your personality and your physical appearance that you feel the need to protect and defend the most?

How do you define or describe yourself in terms of your personality and your physical appearance?

If something happened to your physical appearance and it changed radically, who would you be? How would you know yourself?

Your ego is your happiness; your happiness is your ego.

For you, your ego is happiness. You only feel truly happy when you embody your “little s” self, the character you play in the story of your life. When you are confident of your identity and don’t need to prove yourself to others, no matter what the conditions or appearances are in your life, you appreciate that everything in your life is perfect exactly as it is. But when you are unsure of yourself and have to defend your choices and prove that you are right, your life is filled with problems and challenges, and nothing seems to work out the way you want it to. On a personal level, when you are out of alignment with your ego, you find it hard to take pleasure in anything and you lose interest in the activities you used to enjoy. When you look for happiness in the outside world, you base your happiness on getting what you want. If things don’t turn out the way you expect, you won’t be happy, and even when you do get what you want, the pleasure and satisfaction you experience don’t last. The source of true happiness lives within you, and it’s bulletproof. No matter what the conditions may be in your life, and no matter what emotion you may be experiencing, you are still happy. However, you believe that getting what you want will make you happy. This matters to you because you believe that when you are happy, people won’t challenge or attack you and you won’t have to defend yourself.

Right Relationship with your ego gives you the experience of Power. You have unlimited self-confidence and you are secure in both the character you are playing in your life and in the quality of the performance that you’re giving. But until you find this balance, you will over-identify with your character and believe that your identity is limited to your physical body. You fear the death of the ego/body, and this means you must always be right because the smallest mistake could result in your destruction. You must remember that the real you is the actor playing your character. No matter what happens to your character, the actor, your authentic Self, will survive. When you let go of the need to defend your character choices, you will discover it's okay to make mistakes, and that you don't always have to be right. This lesson is especially challenging for you with the experiences and activities that you associate with happiness because they give you pleasure. You identify personally with your idea of happiness, and feel the need to protect and defend it. When anyone doesn't share your interests, or worse makes a dismissive or disparaging comment about them, you take it as a personal attack. Your character enjoys these activities, but those activities do not define your character's identity. And you do not have to justify your interests or your idea of happiness to anyone.

You can learn about your "little s" self and the character you play by engaging with your hobbies and interests. When you spend time on these pursuits, you get to experience your ego and the character you are playing. But the activities themselves are not the source of your enjoyment. What you enjoy is that when you engage in these activities, you feel confident and empowered. You are certain of your choices, you know what you want, and you don't hesitate to go after it. Each time you find a new activity that you enjoy, you learn more about your character and expand your feeling of self-confidence and certainty. When you spend time in these pursuits, you know who you are. All you need to do is carry that awareness with you to other parts of your life. The more confident you are in your character and the less you have to prove, the more you will experience true happiness.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your ego and your happiness resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your ego and your happiness resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Think of a time when you felt especially happy and reconnect with that feeling. How do you feel about yourself? How confident are you of your identity? Does this feel different than you usually feel?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you experience your ego when you are engaged in your hobbies and interests?

How is the level of enjoyment you experience with your hobbies and interests tied to your experience of your ego and your "little s" self?

What is it about your hobbies and interests that you feel the need to protect and defend the most?

How do you define or describe yourself in terms of your hobbies and interests? How do you define or describe yourself in terms of your happiness?

Who would you be without your hobbies and interests? How would you know yourself?

Your anger is your avatar; your avatar is your anger.

You appear to the world as the embodiment of anger, and everyone you meet projects their judgments, issues, and expectations of anger on you. Other people see how well you have mastered your anger, and that plays an important part in whether or not they have a favorable impression of you. But remember that what other people see in you is a distorted reflection of their own issues. If they are not able to use the energy of their own anger in constructive ways, they will point their fingers and call you out for not handling your own anger. This isn't really about you, but the less mastery you have over your own anger, the more it will happen. When you master the energy of anger and use that energy in conscious and constructive ways, other people have a good impression of you; they tend to like you and to notice your best qualities. But when you struggle with your anger, either repressing it, projecting it, or lashing out with it, other people will not be attracted to you; they will focus on your flaws and shortcomings and will have little respect or esteem for you. Additionally, this will have a negative impact on your physical appearance. When you are angry, you don't look your best. You care about your physical appearance and want to look your best because you believe that the better you look, the more people will like you, and when people like you, you will get what you want when you want it, and the world won't piss you off.

The energy of anger can connect you with an experience of Power, but first you must separate the experience of anger from the story you have created about it. No matter what the appearance is in your reality, your anger is never about what it appears to be about. When you tap into the energy of anger, you must learn to drop the story and refrain from reacting (which would use force and only make the situation worse). Take a moment and drop every part of the story that is not a part of My Business, and then let go of your expectations. This is the most challenging for you with your avatar, because your physical appearance is an area of your life where you have strong expectations and experience high levels of frustration. The more you try to control how you think other people see you, the more anger you will experience. If you direct that anger at your appearance or your physical body, it will only make the situation worse. You must learn to drop that story so you can use the energy of your anger constructively.

You can begin to master your anger by engaging with your physical appearance. Your clothing is your armor, and your grooming and make-up are your war paint. The self-confidence you feel when you like how you look comes from the feeling that you are protected and defended against other people's anger. Change your hair. Try different styles and colors of clothing, or just upgrade your wardrobe and limit how often you wear old T-shirts and sweatpants, even around the house. Spend a few extra minutes on your daily grooming, and notice how each change or improvement makes you feel. When you consciously engage with your physical appearance, you tap into the energy of your own anger, and use it creatively. You may not recognize the energy of anger because it won't always reach the level of intensity you associate with the emotion of anger. Anytime you feel impatient, frustrated, defensive, annoyed, or stressed, you are experiencing the energy of anger. One of the most constructive ways you can direct the energy of anger is through physical activity, which can have the added benefit of improving your physical fitness and the appearance of your physical body over time. The more you learn to master your anger, the more other people will like you and recognize your best qualities.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your anger and your avatar resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your anger and your avatar resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Are you able to hide your anger from other people? Or can other people always tell when you're angry?

Do other people think you're angry or upset even when you don't feel angry?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you think your anger expresses in your personality and your appearance?

How does anger show up in your physical appearance?

What are some examples of how your physical appearance makes you angry, frustrated, or resentful?

How do you use your physical appearance to express your anger?

How do you express your anger at your physical appearance? How does that affect things?

Your anger is your happiness; your happiness is your anger.

For you, anger is happiness. You only feel truly happy when you are able to experience and channel the energy of anger. When you have mastered the energy of anger and are able to use that energy in conscious and constructive ways, no matter what the conditions or appearances are in your life, you appreciate that everything in your life is perfect exactly as it is. But when you struggle with your anger, either repressing it, projecting it, or lashing out with it, your life is filled with problems and challenges, and nothing seems to work out the way you want it to. On personal level, when you don't channel your anger effectively, you find it hard to take pleasure in anything and you lose interest in the activities you used to enjoy. When you look for happiness in the outside world, you base your happiness on getting what you want. If things don't turn out the way you expect, you won't be happy, and even when you do get what you want, the pleasure and satisfaction you experience don't last. The source of true happiness lives within you, and it's bulletproof. No matter what the conditions may be in your life, and no matter what emotion you may be experiencing—even anger—you are still happy. However, you believe that getting what you want will make you happy. This matters to you because you believe that when you are happy, you will get what you want when you want it, and the world won't piss you off.

The energy of anger can connect you with an experience of Power, but first you must separate the experience of anger from the story you have created about it. No matter what the appearance is in your reality, your anger is never about what it appears to be about. When you tap into the energy of anger, you must learn to drop the story and refrain from reacting (which would use force and only make the situation worse). Take a moment and drop every part of the story that is not a part of My Business, and then let go of your expectations. This is the most challenging for you with the experiences and activities that you associate with happiness because they give you pleasure. You have strong expectations around your idea of happiness, which results in high levels of frustration. The more you try to control your happiness by getting what you want, the more anger you will experience, and directing the energy of your anger at the conditions and events in your life only makes the situation worse. When things don't work out the way you want them to, you must learn to drop the story that you're not happy, remind yourself of the truth that your happiness lives within you, not in the outside world, and use the energy of your anger constructively.

You can begin to master your anger by engaging with your hobbies and interests. You enjoy these pursuits because when you spend time on them, you channel the energy of your anger in creative ways. The fire of anger can keep you focused and motivated: it's the passion that allows you to overcome obstacles and realize your dreams. You may not recognize the energy of anger because it won't always reach the level of intensity you associate with the emotion of anger. Anytime you feel impatient, frustrated, defensive, annoyed, or stressed, you are experiencing the energy of anger. You enjoy the challenges of competitions, both as a player and as a fan. And the truth is that you need challenges to overcome to be happy. You are the happiest when you are energized and motivated and pursuing your goals and desires. You already use your anger constructively in your hobbies and interests. You just need to realize that you can do this in other areas of your life as well. The more you learn to master your anger, the more you will experience true happiness.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your anger and your happiness resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your anger and your happiness resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Can you think of a time when it felt good to connect to the energy of your anger? Did the energy of your anger make you feel powerful? Why or why not?

Can you think of a time when channeling the energy of anger made you feel better about the situation? What did you do and how did you direct your anger?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you experience anger when you are engaged in your hobbies and interests?

How is the level of enjoyment you experience with your hobbies and interests tied to how well you channel the energy of anger?

What are some examples of how your hobbies and interests make you angry, frustrated, or resentful?

How do you use your hobbies and interests to express your anger?

How do you express your anger at your hobbies and interests? How does that affect the situation?

Mars, the Ruler of your First House in Houses

The house occupied by the Ruler of the First House tells you where you expect to find your happiness. The affairs of this house do not encompass your entire journey, and they alone do not represent happiness, but they are where your journey begins, and they will remain a touchstone for your happiness and personal fulfillment in this lifetime. Your avatar goes forth into the world through this house, and your personality and appearance express using the resources of this house.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video lesson on Mars that explores the house that Mars, the Ruler of your First House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by Mars, the Ruler of your First House. Now, go back and revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience Mars as the ruler of your First House, and notice how the house Mars occupies influences your understanding.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the First House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your First House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to be confident of who you think you are, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to channel the energy of anger constructively, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Second House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Second House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to be confident of who you think you are. You will spend money and use your talents to channel the energy of anger constructively. You will spend money and use your talents to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you. And you will spend money and use your talents to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Third House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Third House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to be confident of who you think you are, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to channel the energy of anger constructively, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Fourth House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Fourth House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your home, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you be confident of who you think you are, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you channel the energy of anger constructively, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, because they're personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy may disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Fifth House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Fifth House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to be confident of who you think you are, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to channel the energy of anger constructively, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Sixth House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Sixth House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to be confident of who you think you are, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to channel the energy of anger constructively, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Seventh House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Seventh House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to be confident of who you think you are for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to channel the energy of anger constructively for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to adjust your personality and appearance for you so that they will like you, and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Eighth House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Eighth House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to be confident of who you think you are. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to channel the energy of anger constructively. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Ninth House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Ninth House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to be confident of who you think you are because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to channel the energy of anger constructively because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the Tenth House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Tenth House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to be confident of who you think you are, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to channel the energy of anger constructively, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the Eleventh House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to be confident of who you think you are so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to channel the energy of anger constructively so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

Mars, the Ruler of the First House in the Twelfth House

With Mars, the Ruler of the First House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your ego, your anger, your avatar, and your happiness. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to be confident of who you think you are, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to channel the energy of anger constructively, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.