

Venus Rules the First House

The First House is all about you, personally. It's your health, your happiness, your personality, and how you show up and interact with the world.

It is arguably the most important house in the chart because when you get right down to it, the only thing that really matters is happiness. The planet that rules the First House is the Ruler of the Chart, and this planet is the most important planet to you because it offers the most direct path to your happiness.

The First House is your avatar.

Imagine if life were a giant video game. You navigate the virtual reality through an avatar—an animated surrogate that allows you to explore the world. You interact with other players in the game through their avatars. Your avatar is how you appear to the world. It's the qualities other people see in your personality, and it's your physical appearance. Think of your avatar as your online dating profile. It's the image that you project to the world in the hope that other people will find you attractive. Your avatar may be quite different from your authentic "Big S" Self (Sun) or your "little s" self, the character you play in the game (Mars).

You appear to the world as the embodiment of the expression of the planet that rules your First House. Other people see this quality most clearly in your personality. What other people really see is a reflection of themselves, because your avatar is a mirror. They project their issues and judgments about the planet that rules your First House on you. In a sense, the world tries to "gaslight" you, because other people often accuse you of exhibiting their problems. Of course, the more you are out of alignment with the planet that rules your First House, the more these judgments will bother you because your issues have a lot in common with their issues.

When you are in Right Relationship with the planet that rules your First House, other people are attracted to you. They tend to see your best qualities, and they have a good impression of you. This is nice, but it's not something you can control. And what other people think about you is none of your business.

On a personal level, you can influence your physical appearance, including your choice of clothing, hair, grooming, hygiene, and personal style. To a lesser degree and over time, you can alter the appearance of your physical body through diet and exercise. Each of these elements affects how other people see you, but what matters the most is how you see yourself. If you don't like what you see in the mirror, other people won't like it, either.

The First House is your happiness.

The secret of happiness—or at least the secret of your happiness—lies in the First House. The planet that rules your first house is your happiness, and the first step towards becoming truly happy is to move into Right Relationship with that planet and let it guide you on your path. Happiness doesn't exist in the outer world, however. Happiness is an inside job. It's a consequence of your level of consciousness, and directly related to how well you embody the truth of your authentic Self. The planet that rules your first house will point you in the right direction.

When you look for happiness in the outside world, you base your happiness on getting what you want. If things don't turn out the way you expect, you won't be happy, and even when you do get what you want, the pleasure and satisfaction you experience don't last. The source of true happiness lives within you, and it's bulletproof. No matter what the conditions may be in your life, and no matter what emotion you may be experiencing, you are still happy. Happiness is a context that contains the full range of feelings, emotions, and experiences. The experience of happiness is better than you can imagine, but it doesn't feel the way you expect it to feel. And happiness does not mean that you enjoy every moment of your life. The highs only have value when compared with the lows.

On a personal level, you associate happiness with your hobbies and interests because you experience pleasure when you engage in these activities. But consider that while you are happy when you pursue the things that interest you, the moment-to-moment experience of these pursuits is not always enjoyable. Struggle, frustration, obstacles, and any number of challenges are often associated with how you would like to spend your time and energy. But you welcome these when they're associated with your interests because the bigger context is happiness. When you learn to live the rest of your life from this context, you will experience true happiness.

Venus Rules the First House

Your validation needs are your avatar; your avatar is your validation needs.

You appear to the world as the embodiment of love and appreciation. Everyone you meet projects their expectations of their ideal experience of love on you, and then expects you to live up to those ideals. Other people see how well you embody love, and that plays an important part in whether or not they have a favorable impression of you. But remember that what other people see in you is a distorted reflection of their own issues. If they are not meeting their own validation needs, they will point their fingers and call you out for how you are not appreciating them. This isn't really about you, but the less you love and appreciate yourself, the more it will happen. When you maintain the minimum required balance in your Validation Need Account, other people have a good impression of you; they tend to like you and to notice your best qualities. But when you fail to meet your own validation needs and expect other people to meet them for you, other people will not be attracted to you; they will focus on your flaws and shortcomings and will have little respect or esteem for you. This will have a negative impact on your physical appearance. When you don't feel love and appreciation, you won't look your best, and may even appear sloppy and unkempt. You care about your physical appearance and want to look your best because you believe that the better you look, the more people will like you, and when people like you, you won't experience rejection or abandonment because you're unworthy of love.

You long to experience Unity and the truth that you are neither separate nor isolated from the Universe. You look for this through connections to other individuals where you can experience love and appreciation. Even though other people have access to your Validation Need Account and can make deposits and withdrawals, you are responsible for maintaining the minimum balance on your own. The more you look outside of yourself for validation, the harder it will be to manage your own validation needs. But when you learn to love and appreciate yourself and develop healthy self-esteem, the dynamic in all of your relationships transforms. You especially need to experience love and appreciation related to your avatar and your physical appearance. You care about how you look. Your appearance is important to you, and when other people notice and appreciate how you look, it makes a significant deposit in your Validation Need Account. Because looks are so important to you, when you want to make someone else feel validated, you express love and appreciation for their outer appearance. It may surprise you that not everyone enjoys that.

You can learn to monitor your Validation Need Account and maintain the minimum required balance by engaging with your physical appearance. Change your hair. Try different styles and colors of clothing, or just upgrade your wardrobe and limit how often you wear old T-shirts and sweatpants, even around the house. Spend a few extra minutes on your daily grooming, and notice how each change or improvement makes you feel. Take the time to appreciate how you look in the mirror, and to express some love and appreciation for yourself. When you validate yourself for looking good, you won't need other people to validate your appearance because you will be managing your own validation needs. Ironically, this means that other people will be more likely to compliment you on how you look and make extra deposits in your Validation Need Account. Once you are comfortable validating yourself for your appearance, you can begin to appreciate yourself—and other people—for other things, too. The more you meet your own validation needs and love and appreciate yourself, the more other people will like you and recognize your best qualities.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your validation needs and your avatar resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your validation needs and your avatar resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What do you want other people to notice and appreciate about your appearance?

What do you want other people to notice and appreciate about your personality?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you think your validation needs express in your personality and how you appear?

How do other people see your validation needs in you? How do they expect you to express love and appreciation? Do they think that you meet those expectations?

How do your validation needs show up in your physical appearance?

What do you love and appreciate the most about your personality and physical appearance?

How do you express love and appreciation through your physical appearance?

How do you express love and appreciation for other people for their appearance and personality?

Your validation needs are your happiness; your happiness is your validation needs.

For you, validation is happiness. You only feel truly happy when you are experiencing or expressing love and appreciation. When you maintain the minimum required balance in your Validation Need Account, no matter what the conditions or appearances are in your life, you appreciate that everything in your life is perfect exactly as it is. But when you fail to meet your own validation needs and expect other people to meet them for you, your life is filled with problems and challenges, and nothing seems to work out the way you want it to. On a personal level, if you're not feeling validated, you find it hard to take pleasure in anything and you lose interest in the activities you used to enjoy. When you look for happiness in the outside world, you base your happiness on getting what you want. If things don't turn out the way you expect, you won't be happy, and even when you do get what you want, the pleasure and satisfaction you experience don't last. The source of true happiness lives within you, and it's bulletproof. No matter what the conditions may be in your life, and no matter what emotion you may be experiencing, you are still happy. However, you believe that getting what you want will make you happy. This matters to you because you believe that when you are happy, you won't experience rejection or abandonment because you're unworthy of love.

You long to experience Unity and the truth that you are neither separate nor isolated from the Universe. You look for this through connections to other individuals where you can experience love and appreciation. Even though other people have access to your Validation

Need Account and can make deposits and withdrawals, you are responsible for maintaining the minimum balance on your own. The more you look outside of yourself for validation, the harder it will be to manage your own validation needs. But when you learn to love and appreciate yourself and develop healthy self-esteem, the dynamic in all of your relationships transforms. You especially need to experience love and appreciation related to the experiences and activities that you associate with happiness because they give you pleasure. You want other people to validate you for your interests, ideally by sharing your enthusiasm and enjoyment of these pursuits. Because of this, you may be drawn to activities that involve other people, and pursuits that have associated communities. The more people that enjoy the things that you enjoy, the more connected you feel.

You can learn to monitor your Validation Need Account and maintain the minimum required balance on your own by engaging with your hobbies and interests. You enjoy these pursuits because when you spend time on them, you experience love and appreciation. Other people seem to make more substantial deposits in your Validation Need Account when your hobbies and interests are involved. They may notice your skills or congratulate you on your achievements, or simply share your enthusiasm. But what's really happening is that when you engage in these activities, you love and appreciate yourself. You tap into your self-esteem, and you know that you are worthy of love. Once you become conscious of this, you can recognize that it's not limited to your hobbies and interests. You can love and appreciate yourself in every area of your life. The more you meet your own validation needs and love and appreciate yourself, the more you will experience true happiness.

How do you express love and appreciation through the things that make you happy?

How do you love and appreciate other people for the things that make them happy?

Your Core Values are your avatar; your avatar is your Core Values.

You appear to the world as the embodiment of your Core Values. Whether you appear to be the presence of Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order, when you encounter other individuals, they will be forced to address their own relationship to that quality. Other people project their expectations of that Core Value on you, and how well you embody that quality determines whether or not they have a favorable impression of you. But remember that what other people see in you is a distorted reflection of their own issues. If they are not experiencing their Core Values in their own life, they will point their fingers and call you out for lacking those qualities. This isn't really about you, but the more you fail to notice and appreciate the presence of your Core Values in your life, the more it will happen. When you experience the presence of your Core Values and tune to the vibration of those qualities, other people have a good impression of you; they tend to like you and to notice your best qualities. But when you are not connected to your Core Values and believe the illusion that your Core Values are absent from your reality, other people will not be attracted to you; they will focus on your flaws and shortcomings and will have little respect or esteem for you. This will have a negative impact on your physical appearance. When you don't notice your Core Values, you won't look your best, and may even appear sloppy and unkempt. You care about your physical appearance and want to look your best because you believe that the better you look, the more people will like you, and when people like you, you won't feel so isolated and separate from the Divine.

The experience of your Core Values is really about experiencing Unity. When you tune to the vibration of Divine Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order, you remember the truth that you are the embodiment of those qualities. Because these qualities exist in all things at all times, they also exist in you, and you can never be separated from them. Recognizing this truth can be challenging. Not only do you have a narrow and limited set of expectations of what these qualities look like (which is what makes it so easy for you to overlook them), but you also expect to see evidence of your Core Values in the outside world. You especially expect to recognize your Core Values in your avatar and your physical appearance, and you are frequently disappointed. Consider which of the Core Values is the most absent from your experience of how you look, including how you feel about your physical body, your clothing, your grooming, and your personal style. That's the Core Value that is the most important to you right now. You need to discover what it really feels like so you can begin to recognize it in your life.

The easiest way for you to discover and experience the feeling of your Core Values is to engage with your physical appearance. Change your hair. Try different styles and colors of clothing, or just upgrade your wardrobe and limit how often you wear old T-shirts and sweatpants, even around the house. Spend a few extra minutes on your daily grooming, and notice how each change or improvement makes you feel. When you feel good about how you look, take a few extra moments to notice how your Core Values show up in your appearance. Find the Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, and Order in the reflection you see in the mirror, and then consider that those qualities are always with you. The more you recognize the presence of your Core Values in your life, the more other people will like you and recognize your best qualities.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your Core Values and your avatar resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your Core Values and your avatar resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Which of the Core Values do you most want other people to see in you? Choose from Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty or Order. What is it about that Core Value that makes it so attractive to you?

Which of the Core Values do you most want to see in yourself? Why?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

When considering your Core Values, choose from Divine Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order.

How do you think your Core Values express in your personality and how you appear to the world?

How do other people see your Core Values in you? What do they expect? Do they think that you meet those expectations?

Which of the Core Values are the easiest to notice in your personality and your physical appearance? How do you recognize them? What do they look like to you?

Which of the Core Values appear to be absent from your personality and your physical appearance? How do you expect them to show up and why do you think they're missing?

Your Core Values are your happiness; your happiness is your Core Values.

For you, your Core Values are your happiness. You only feel truly happy when you recognize the presence of Beauty, Balance, Joy, Love, Order, Peace, Power or Wisdom. When you experience the presence of your Core Values and tune to the vibration of those qualities, no matter what the conditions or appearances are in your life, you appreciate that everything in your life is perfect exactly as it is. But when you are not connected to your Core Values and believe the illusion that your Core Values are absent from your reality, your life is filled with problems and challenges, and nothing seems to work out the way you want it to. On a personal level, without a connection to your Core Values you find it hard to take pleasure in anything and you lose interest in the activities you used to enjoy. When you look for happiness in the outside world, you base your happiness on getting what you want. If things don't turn out the way you expect, you won't be happy, and even when you do get what you want, the pleasure and satisfaction you experience don't last. The source of true happiness lives within you, and it's bulletproof. No matter what the conditions may be in your life, and no matter what emotion you may be experiencing, you are still happy. However, you believe that getting what you want will make you happy. This matters to you because you believe that when you are happy, you won't feel so isolated and separate from the Divine.

The experience of your Core Values is really about experiencing Unity. When you tune to the vibration of Divine Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order, you remember the truth that you are the embodiment of those qualities. Because these qualities exist in all things at all times, they also exist in you, and you can never be separated from them. Recognizing this truth can be challenging. Not only do you have a narrow and limited set of expectations of what these qualities look like (which is what makes it so easy for you to overlook them), but you also expect to see evidence of your Core Values in the outside world. You especially expect to recognize your Core Values in the experiences and activities that you associate with happiness because they give you pleasure, and you are frequently disappointed. Consider which of the Core Values is the most absent from your life and stands between you and your happiness. That's the Core Value that is the most important to you right now. You need to discover what it really feels like so you can begin to recognize it in your life.

The easiest way for you to discover and experience the feeling of your Core Values is to engage with your hobbies and interests. You enjoy these pursuits because when you spend time on them, you experience the vibration of your Core Values. Take some time and consider what you enjoy the most about your hobbies and interests. You may find that your enjoyment is tied to how these experiences connect you with Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty and/or Order. Choose to focus on one of these Core Values the next time you engage in your favorite activities and see how much more you enjoy it. Make a game of it. Once you've learned to spot that quality in your hobbies and interests, take the game to the next level and find that quality in every other part of your life. The more you recognize the presence of your Core Values in your life, the more you will experience true happiness.

environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to experience love and appreciation, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to recognize the presence of your Core Values, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Seventh House

With Venus, the Ruler of the First House in your Seventh House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your avatar, and your happiness in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to experience love and appreciation for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to recognize the presence of your Core Values for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to adjust your personality and appearance for you so that they will like you, and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Venus, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Eighth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the First House in your Eighth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your avatar, and your happiness in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to experience love and appreciation. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to recognize the presence of your Core Values. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the First House in the in the Ninth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the First House in your Ninth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your avatar, and your happiness in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to experience love and appreciation because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to recognize the presence of your Core Values because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to adjust your personality and appearance so that other people will like you because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to engage in your hobbies, interests, and your idea of happiness because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.
