

The Third House is your habits and routines.

The Third House is your habits and routines. These are the behaviors that you have performed so many times that you don't have to think about them unless something new comes along to disrupt the expected flow. They can be as simple as the route you take to work, or the way you order your coffee in the morning. They can be as complicated as how you organize your financial records to prepare to file your taxes, or how you organize your kitchen to prepare Christmas dinner for your family. The Third House also relates to the behaviors, habits, and routines that you might like to change—although changing these “bad habits,” is often difficult.

You use your habits and routines to make your life easier. Once something becomes a habit, you don't have to pay attention to it. The routine frees up time and energy and allows you to focus on other things. One of the best examples of this is your daily commute to work. Whether you drive or take public transportation, you don't really notice your commute unless something unexpected disrupts it. You get to use that time to think about other things, and you trust that you'll know when you need to pay attention so you don't miss your exit. But routines can easily become ruts, and ruts can create problems. You can become so dependent on your habits and routines that you don't know how to function without them. You get so used to not having to pay attention that you don't notice when the conditions have changed, so you don't adjust your behavior in time. This can lead to mistakes and accidents that could have been avoided easily if only you were paying attention.

The planet that rules your Third House is your habits and routines. You have learned to automate how you meet the needs of that planet and let it run on autopilot, and most of the time, this works well for you and saves you time and effort. But be careful not to become too dependent on those habitual behaviors. If you don't pay enough attention to how you express the needs of the planet that rules your Third House, it will create problems for you.

Venus Rules the Third House

Your validation needs are your comfort zone; your comfort zone is your validation needs.

Your validation needs are your comfort zone. They're familiar to you, they're always close, and they're easily accessible. You know what to expect with your validation needs, so there are no surprises. Often, this means your experience of love and appreciation is limited to what you already know or what you have already experienced. You take validation for granted, and because of that, you may be missing a lot. Your comfort zone can be a very seductive trap. When you maintain the minimum required balance in your Validation Need Account, you are relaxed and alert. You easily monitor your familiar environment to make sure it's operating smoothly, and you know that if anything unexpected pops up, you can respond instantly and appropriately. But when you fail to meet your own validation needs and expect other people to meet them for you, you don't enjoy the comfort of your familiar environment because you're too busy controlling it. You feel unprepared to handle any surprises or disruptions, and you approach anything new or different with suspicion. On a personal level, when you don't feel loved or appreciated, you may become obsessed with trivial details and need to arrange things in your environment to your liking before you are able to address the bigger issues. When you are finally comfortable, you think you will be protected from the unexpected. And you believe that when you don't have to worry about the unknown, you won't experience rejection or abandonment because you're unworthy of love.

You long to experience Unity and the truth that you are neither separate nor isolated from the Universe. You look for this through connections to other individuals where you can experience love and appreciation. Even though other people have access to your Validation Need Account and can make deposits and withdrawals, you are responsible for maintaining the minimum balance on your own. The more you look outside of yourself for validation, the harder it will be to manage your own validation needs. But when you learn to love and appreciate yourself and develop healthy self-esteem, the dynamic in all of your relationships transforms. You especially need to experience love and appreciation related to your comfort zone. You want to be loved and appreciated for your comfort zone, the things and places that are familiar to you. Because validation is your comfort zone, you're not entirely comfortable unless you're experiencing love and appreciation.

You can learn to monitor your Validation Need Account and maintain the minimum required balance on your own by engaging with your comfort zone. Review your familiar environment and begin to notice how love and appreciation shows up for you there. Then take a closer look. Consider both how you express love and appreciation and how you expect to receive love and appreciation. The key to your comfort zone is your expectations. You have an expectation of a certain level of validation in your comfort zone, so you take it for granted. You notice if it's lacking and you're not receiving your usual deposits in your Validation Need Account, but you don't necessarily appreciate the deposits that you are receiving because they're familiar and expected. Over time, this can make you feel unappreciated and taken for granted, which is exactly how you relate to your comfort zone. Change your expectations and make a point to notice something new about every bit of validation, love, and appreciation you experience. Let the familiar parts of the love and appreciation you experience form the background so the new insights will stand out by contrast. And look for new things that you can love and appreciate in your comfort zone. When you narrow the focus of your gratitude and address specific details, you discover a new world of things that you can appreciate in your comfort zone. Send out love and appreciation and it will come back to you in kind. The more you meet your own validation needs and love and appreciate yourself, the more you will be able to respond to surprises and unexpected events.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your validation needs and your comfort zone resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your validation needs and your comfort zone resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What are some examples of people, places, things, or experiences in your comfort zone that you love and appreciate? How often do you express gratitude for them? How do you show your love and appreciation for your comfort zone?

Choose one example from the above question and consider it more closely. List some specific qualities about that example that you love and appreciate. Does that change how you think or feel about it? How?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

Consider the actual geographical locations in your comfort zone. How do your validation needs show up for you in each of those settings? Where do you find love and appreciation in each of those settings?

Think of a time (and location) when you were outside of your comfort zone. Where did love and appreciation show up for you there? Can you find it?

What are the boundaries of your comfort zone with your validation needs? Where and when do love and appreciation begin to feel uncomfortable and unfamiliar for you?

How do you express love and appreciation through your comfort zone?

How do you love and appreciate other people for their comfort zone?

Your validation needs are your habits and routines; your habits and routines are your validation needs.

Because your validation needs are habits, love and appreciation runs on autopilot. You make familiar choices with love and appreciation and rely on whatever has worked for you in the past. You always take the path of least resistance with your validation needs, and changing your established patterns with them can be challenging. When you maintain the minimum required balance in your Validation Need Account, you don't need to worry about love and appreciation because it's automated and doesn't require your attention. This frees you up to focus on other things. But when you fail to meet your own validation needs and expect other people to meet them for you, that automation creates problems for you. You don't notice that conditions have changed, so you don't make the necessary adjustments to your behaviors. This leads to mistakes and accidents that could have been avoided easily if only you were paying attention. On a personal level, when you don't feel loved or appreciated, your habits and routines can create a rut in your life, making you feel stuck and limited. You become dependent on your routine, and don't know how to function without it. You create habits and routines because they make your life easier, freeing up your time and energy. And you believe that when you have more time and energy, you won't experience rejection or abandonment because you're unworthy of love.

You long to experience Unity and the truth that you are neither separate nor isolated from the Universe. You look for this through connections to other individuals where you can experience love and appreciation. Even though other people have access to your Validation Need Account and can make deposits and withdrawals, you are responsible for maintaining the minimum balance on your own. The more you look outside of yourself for validation, the harder it will be to manage your own validation needs. But when you learn to love and appreciate yourself and develop healthy self-esteem, the dynamic in all of your relationships transforms. You especially need to experience love and appreciation related to your habits and routines. You hope that people will notice your habits and routines and validate you for them. But you also have habits and routines that govern how you express and experience love and appreciation.

You can learn to monitor your Validation Need Account and maintain the minimum required balance on your own by engaging with your habits and routines. First, you need to become conscious of your habits and routines. These may be easy to identify because they're the behaviors that you point out to other people, hoping to impress them. They're also the behaviors that give you a little boost of self-esteem because you think they're saving you time and energy. Finally, consider your habits and behaviors that are intended to reward yourself or make you feel better. These are some of your habits that specifically involve your validation needs. Once you identify these behavior patterns, look at them objectively and evaluate how well they are working for you right now. Look for any ways you could upgrade those patterns. If any patterns are no longer serving you, set the intention to replace them, and perhaps tap into your validation habits so that you can reward yourself each time you make a new choice. When you know that your habits and routines are working for you, you feel good about yourself. The more you meet your own validation needs and love and appreciate yourself, the more time and energy you can free up in your life.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your validation needs and your habits and routines resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your validation needs and your habits and routines resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What are some of your habits and routines that you follow to treat yourself or to make yourself feel better? What are your go-to choices to motivate yourself or to celebrate a victory?

What are your habits and routines when you express love and appreciation? If you want to express gratitude and show someone that you love and appreciate them, how do you do it? Do you tend to choose the same options over and over again? Why or why not?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do your validation needs show up in your life without your noticing them? When do you only notice love or appreciation in hindsight, after you've experienced it?

Are there habits and routines with your validation needs that you would like to change? What are they and how would you like to change them?

What do you love and appreciate the most about your habits and routines? What do you want other people to notice and appreciate about your habits and routines?

How do you express love and appreciation through your habits and routines?

How do you love and appreciate other people for their habits and routines?

Your Core Values are your comfort zone; your comfort zone is your Core Values.

Your Core Values are your comfort zone. They're familiar to you, they're always close, and they're easily accessible. You know what to expect with your Core Values, so there are no surprises. Often, this means your experience of your Core Values is limited to what you already know or what you have already experienced. You take your Core Values for granted, and because of that, you may be missing a lot. Your comfort zone can be a very seductive trap. When you experience the presence of your Core Values and tune to the vibration of those qualities, you are relaxed and alert. You easily monitor your familiar environment to make sure it's operating smoothly, and you know that if anything unexpected pops up, you can respond instantly and appropriately. But when you are not connected to your Core Values and believe the illusion that your Core Values are absent from your reality, you don't enjoy the comfort of your familiar environment because you're too busy controlling it. You feel unprepared to handle any surprises or disruptions, and you approach anything new or different with suspicion. On a personal level, when you fail to notice your Core Values, you may become obsessed with trivial details and need to arrange things in your environment to your liking before you are able to address the bigger issues. When you are finally comfortable, you think you will be protected from the unexpected. And you believe that when you don't have to worry about the unknown, you won't feel so isolated and separate from the Divine.

The experience of your Core Values is really about experiencing Unity. When you tune to the vibration of Divine Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order, you remember the truth that you are the embodiment of those qualities. Because these qualities exist in all things at all times, they also exist in you, and you can never be separated from them. Recognizing this truth can be challenging. Not only do you have a narrow and limited set of expectations of what these qualities look like (which is what makes it so easy for you to overlook them), but you also expect to see evidence of your Core Values in the outside world. You especially expect to recognize your Core Values in your comfort zone, and you are frequently disappointed. Consider which of the Core Values is the most absent from your experience of your comfort zone. That's the Core Value that is the most important to you right now. You need to discover what it really feels like so you can begin to recognize it in your life.

The easiest way for you to discover and experience the feeling of your Core Values is to engage with your comfort zone. Review your familiar environment and begin to notice how your Core Values show up for you there. Then take a closer look. The key to your comfort zone is your expectations. You expect your Core Values to be familiar so you take them for granted, and this means you only notice a fraction of them. If you change your expectations, and expect that you can discover something new and unfamiliar about your Core Values, even from within your comfort zone, your comfort zone will expand. Approach your Core Values from a different angle or a new direction. Change your focus and consider them from up close or from a greater distance. Let the familiar parts of your Core Values form the background so the new insights will stand out by contrast. And remember: no matter what the appearance of your comfort zone, your Core Values are present there. You just need to find them. The more you recognize the presence of your Core Values in your life, the more you will be able to respond to surprises and unexpected events.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your Core Values and your comfort zone resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your Core Values and your comfort zone resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Which of the Core Values do you most expect to find in your comfort zone? Which of the Core Values seems the most familiar to you? How do you expect it to look?

Which of the Core Values do you least expect to find in your comfort zone? Which of the Core Values seems the least familiar to you? How do you expect it to look?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

When considering your Core Values, choose from Divine Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order.

Consider the actual geographical locations in your comfort zone. How do your Core Values show up for you in each of those settings? Where do you find your Core Values in each of those settings?

Think of a time (and location) when you were outside of your comfort zone. Where did your Core Values show up for you there? Can you find them?

What are the boundaries of your comfort zone with your Core Values? Where and when do your Core Values begin to feel uncomfortable and unfamiliar for you?

Your Core Values are your habits and routines; your habits and routines are your Core Values.

Because your Core Values are habits, they run on autopilot. You make familiar choices with your Core Values and rely on whatever has worked for you in the past. You always take the path of least resistance when noticing and aligning with your Core Values, and changing your established patterns can be challenging. When you experience the presence of your Core Values and tune to the vibration of those qualities, you don't need to worry about recognizing your Core Values because it's automated and doesn't require your attention. This frees you up to focus on other things. But when you are not connected to your Core Values and believe the illusion that your Core Values are absent from your reality, that automation creates problems for you. You don't notice that conditions have changed, so you don't make the necessary adjustments to your behaviors. This leads to mistakes and accidents that could have been avoided easily if only you were paying attention. On a personal level, when you fail to notice your Core Values, your habits and routines can create a rut in your life, making you feel stuck and limited. You become dependent on your routine, and don't know how to function without it. You create habits and routines because they make your life easier, freeing up your time and energy. And you believe that when you have more time and energy, you won't feel so isolated and separate from the Divine.

The experience of your Core Values is really about experiencing Unity. When you tune to the vibration of Divine Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order, you remember the truth that you are the embodiment of those qualities. Because these qualities exist in all things at all times, they also exist in you, and you can never be separated from them. Recognizing this truth can be challenging. Not only do you have a narrow and limited set of expectations of what these qualities look like (which is what makes it so easy for you to overlook them), but you also expect to see evidence of your Core Values in the outside world. You especially expect to recognize your Core Values in your habits and routines, and you are frequently disappointed. Consider which of the Core Values is the most absent from your experience of your habits and routines. That's the Core Value that is the most important to you right now. You need to discover what it really feels like so you can begin to recognize it in your life.

The easiest way for you to discover and experience the feeling of your Core Values is to engage with your habits and routines. Identify a few examples of behaviors that you engage in regularly, or routines that you don't think about. You created these habits because they automate or simplify a part of your life, but they also create the opportunity for you to recognize the presence of your Core Values. Consider each habit and routine and identify how, precisely, it is supposed to make your life easier. Now imagine what you would experience if that habit or routine completely eliminated the negative aspects of that part of your life. When you tap into how that would feel, you are tapping into the vibration of one of your Core Values. Once you discover which Core Value each habit or routine represents for you, you can begin to look for evidence of that Core Value when you engage in the behavior. The more you recognize the presence of your Core Values in your life, the more time and energy you can free up in your life.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your Core Values and your habits and routines resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your Core Values and your habits and routines resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose a habit or a routine in your life that saves you time or makes your life easier. What experiences does that behavior limit or eliminate for you? Imagine if you never had to experience those feelings again. Which Core Value best describes that feeling for you?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

When considering your Core Values, choose from Divine Love, Joy, Power, Peace, Wisdom, Balance, Beauty, or Order.

What are some examples of your routine behaviors with your Core Values?

How do your Core Values show up in your life without your noticing them? When do you only notice your Core Values in hindsight, after you've experienced them?

Are there habits and routines with your Core Values that you would like to change? What are they and how would you like to change them?

Which of the Core Values are the easiest to notice in your habits and routines? How do you recognize them? What do they look like to you?

Which of the Core Values appear to be absent from your habits and routines? How do you expect them to show up and why do you think they're missing?

Venus, the Ruler of your Third House in Houses

The house occupied by the Ruler of the Third House shows where you most rely on habits, routine, and familiarity. This is the area of life where you access your network, and it's where you encounter your communication hub. This is where you find your comfort zone. This is also the area of your life where your habitual programming can make changing your behaviors especially challenging. The house that Venus occupies also tells you where and from whom you expect to receive validation.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Locate and read the description of the house occupied by Venus, the Ruler of your Third House. Carefully consider the resources available to Venus in that house, and how Venus will behave. Now go back and revisit each of the earlier questions about how you experience Venus as the Ruler of your Third House, and consider how and where you express those needs and behaviors, based on the house Venus occupies in your chart.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the First House

The house occupied by the Ruler of the Third House shows where you most rely on habits, routine, and familiarity. This is the area of life where you access your network, and it's where you encounter your communication hub. This is where you find your comfort zone. This is also the area of your life where your habitual programming can make changing your behaviors especially challenging.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video lesson on Venus that explores the house that Venus, the Ruler of your Third House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by Venus, the Ruler of your Third House. Now, go back and revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience Venus as the ruler of your Third House, and notice how the house Venus occupies influences your understanding.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the First House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your First House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to experience love and appreciation, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to recognize the presence of your Core Values, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to automate your life by creating habits and routines, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Second House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Second House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to experience love and appreciation. You will spend money and use your talents to recognize the presence of your Core Values. You will spend money and use your talents to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected. And you will spend money and use your talents to automate your life by creating habits and routines. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Third House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Third House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to experience love and appreciation, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to recognize the presence of your Core Values, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to automate your life by creating habits and routines, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Fourth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Fourth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your home, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you experience love and appreciation, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you recognize the presence of your Core Values, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you automate your life by creating habits and routines, because it's personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Fifth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Fifth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to experience love and appreciation, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to recognize the presence of your Core Values, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to automate your life by creating habits and routines, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Sixth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Sixth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to experience love and appreciation, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to recognize the presence of your Core Values, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to automate your life by creating habits and routines, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Seventh House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Seventh House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to experience love and appreciation for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to recognize the presence of your Core Values for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected for you and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to automate your life by creating habits and routines for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Eighth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Eighth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to experience love and appreciation. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to recognize the presence of your Core Values. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to automate your life by creating habits and routines. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the in the Ninth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Ninth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to experience love and appreciation because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to recognize the presence of your Core Values because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to automate your life by creating habits and routines because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the Tenth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Tenth House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to experience love and appreciation, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to recognize the presence of your Core Values, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to automate your life by creating habits and routines, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the Eleventh House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to experience love and appreciation so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to recognize the presence of your Core Values so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to automate your life by creating habits and routines so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in the Twelfth House

With Venus, the Ruler of the Third House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your validation needs, your Core Values, your comfort zone, and your habits and routines. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to experience love and appreciation, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to recognize the presence of your Core Values, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to expand your comfort zone to protect yourself from the unexpected, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to automate your life by creating habits and routines, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.