

Mercury Rules the Fourth House

The Fourth House is your foundation. It is the rock upon which you build your life. It represents your home, both literally (land, buildings, and real estate) and metaphorically (your private life and personal sanctuary).

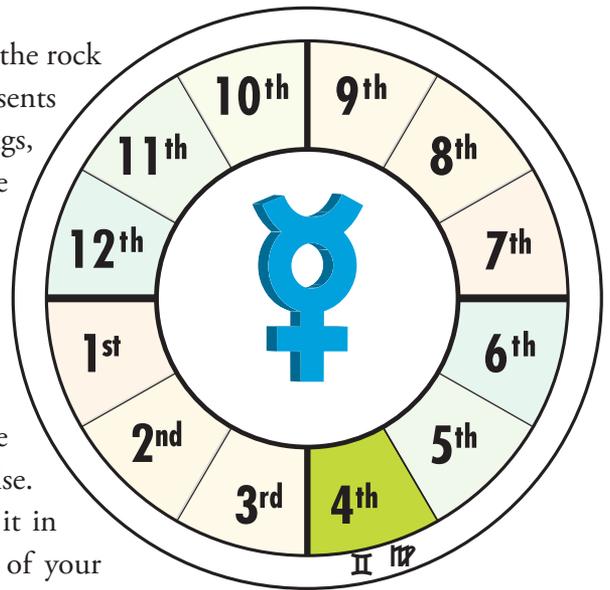

The Fourth House is your foundation.

Your foundation is the bedrock of your life. It's the part of your life that must be squared away before you can devote any time or energy to anything else. When something shakes your foundation, you feel it in every part of your life. It's an earthquake, and all of your structures will be disrupted by the shock waves. If your foundation is not solid, or the disruption peaks at the top of the Richter scale, the structures of your life can come tumbling down, leaving you surrounded by rubble. Nothing can protect you from "the big one" if it hits, but a solid, stable foundation can help you to withstand quakes of smaller magnitude. You may emerge bruised, and things may fall off your shelves, but if your foundation is stable, you can escape without significant structural damage to your life.

The planet that rules the Fourth House is the foundation of your life. All that you hope to be, do, express, or create builds on this foundation. The expression of the planet is what your foundation is really about, but it may not be what you recognize as your foundation. When you look at the story of your life and your "little r" reality, your life has an external foundation. It could be your health, your home, your job, your relationship, your children, your finances, or your creative expression (to name only a few examples). It may be obvious to you, or you may not have given it much thought. But whenever anything disrupts the foundation of your life, you know it. The alarm sounds, and you feel the aftershocks everywhere. Addressing that disruption becomes your top priority. Whatever the disruption appears to be about, it's really about an issue meeting the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

The Fourth House is your sanctuary.

Traditionally, the Fourth House represents your home, but "home" doesn't capture the importance of the Fourth House. The Fourth House is more than a shelter or a place where you can store your stuff. The Fourth House is your sanctuary. It's the place where you can drop your defenses and be yourself without worrying about what anyone else thinks. Your sanctuary is where you go to rest, recover, and recharge your batteries. Your sanctuary is your sacred, private, personal space. You expect that what happens in your sanctuary will remain hidden from the world, known only to those who have earned the privilege of seeing you undefended, and who show you their undefended self in return. Your external sanctuary is your personal, private space. Unless you live alone, your sanctuary is likely to be a smaller part of your actual home, like your bedroom or office. The less privacy you have, the more critical it becomes that you protect and enjoy your internal sanctuary.

The planet that rules your Fourth House is your actual, internal sanctuary. When you meet the needs of that planet and maintain right relationship with it, you are able to meet your own needs and take care of yourself. You are able to find rest, protection, and nourishment, and recover from the demands of the world. Maintaining right relationship with this planet keeps you connected to your internal sanctuary. It's what allows you to recharge your batteries on the fly, even if you can't physically retreat from the world.

Mercury Rules the Fourth House

Your story is your foundation; your foundation is your story.

Your story is the foundation of your life. All that you hope to be, do, express, or create builds on this foundation. When you actively search for the deeper meaning of your story and pursue the truth within your reality, your foundation is rock solid and unshakable. It creates stability in all parts of your life. But when you accept the appearance of the reality of your "little s" story and fail to look for a deeper meaning, your foundation is weak and unstable. No matter how much progress you make in your life, even the smallest disruption brings everything crashing down like a house of cards. On a personal level, when you focus on your "little s" story, any disruption to your story is a major crisis. It shakes your foundation, and you feel the aftershocks in every part of your life. You have to drop everything to address the crisis and stabilize your foundation, no matter how inconvenient that may be. You want to have a solid foundation for your life because you believe that will mean the structures in your life will survive a major earthquake. And when you don't have to worry that your life might come crashing down around you, you won't be bored with the story of your life.

You long to answer the call to your greatness, escape the confines of your "little s" story and become the hero of the "Big S" Story of your life. Your "Big S" Story is engaging, exciting, compelling, and endlessly entertaining, while your "little s" story is tedious and uninspiring. The difference between the two is that your "little s" story is just real, but your "Big S" story is true. Nothing in your "little s" story is about what it appears to be about. Everything in your reality is a metaphor that contains hidden depths of meaning. When you question your story, you can discover the truth that will give your life meaning and purpose. You must begin by questioning the story of your foundation, because this is the area where you take things at face value and focus on the objective reality rather than the subjective truth.

You can question the reality of your “little s” story and elevate the truth quotient by engaging with your foundation. Take a closer look at the story of your life and identify your external foundation. It could be your health, your home, your job, your relationships, your children, your finances, or your creative expression (to name only a few examples). You know something is a part of your foundation because when anything messes with that part of your life, the alarm bells go off and you feel the tremors everywhere. Now consider how your story relates to your external foundation. Begin to consider those parts of your life from the context of your story, and explore how you can enhance your awareness of your story. Consider how much of your story about your foundation is true, and drop any part of the story that is not true, no matter how real it may appear. Not only will this strengthen your actual foundation, but it will also protect the parts of your life that make up your external foundation. The more you are willing to drop every part of your story that isn’t absolutely true or isn’t your business, the more stable the foundation of your life will be.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your story and your foundation resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your story and your foundation resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn’t seem to apply to you and why?

What are some examples of the things that make up your external foundation? What parts of your life (like your job, your home, your relationship, your money, your car, your cell phone, your computer, etc.) are of such fundamental importance to you that if anything disrupts them, the rest of your life doesn’t function?

Choose an example of something that is a part of your external foundation. What is your story about it? How do you tell yourself it needs to express to give stability to your life? What do you think happens if something disrupts it? Is any part of that story true, or are you just making it real for yourself? Why or why not?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you experience your story as the foundation of your life? What happens to your life when something disrupts your story?

How do you need to experience your story to feel like you have a stable foundation for your life?

When something disrupts your story and shakes your foundation, how do you respond to the crisis? What do you do to stabilize your foundation?

What is your story about your foundation? What does it mean to you? What role does it play in your life? How is it a recurring theme or challenge for you?

How does your story about your foundation limit you and keep you small?

How much of your story about your foundation is true? What happens to that story when you drop every part of the story that is not part of My Business because it's not your responsibility or you can't actually do anything to change or control it?

Your story is your sanctuary; your sanctuary is your story.

Your story is your sanctuary. It's your home, your private retreat where you go to rest, recover, and recharge your batteries. You want to pursue the truth of your "Big S" Story because you expect it to give you relief and respite. As far as you're concerned, your story is personal and private. When you actively search for the deeper meaning of your story and pursue the truth within your reality, you always have access to your sanctuary and you can easily take care of your personal needs and your private life. You can balance your own personal needs with the demands of the world. But when you accept the appearance of the reality of your "little s" story and fail to look for a deeper meaning, you never quite feel at home. You find it difficult to unplug from the world and take care of yourself. You do not have adequate protection from the stress and demands of your life. You feel ungrounded, unsettled, and unstable. On a personal level, when you focus on your "little s" story, it creates disruptions in your actual home and personal space that make it difficult for you to relax. These can range from the physical (clutter, disorder, damage) to the social (lack of privacy, conflict with the people you live with). You want to be able to retreat to your private sanctuary where you can hide from the world and focus on your personal needs because you believe when you are able to rest and recharge your batteries, you won't be bored with the story of your life.

You long to answer the call to your greatness, escape the confines of your "little s" story and become the hero of the "Big S" Story of your life. Your "Big S" Story is engaging, exciting, compelling, and endlessly entertaining, while your "little s" story is tedious and uninspiring. The difference between the two is that your "little s" story is just real, but your "Big S" story is true. Nothing in your "little s" story is about what it appears to be about. Everything in your reality is a metaphor that contains hidden depths of meaning. When you question your story, you can discover the truth that will give your life meaning and purpose. You must begin by questioning the story of your sanctuary, because this is the area where you take things at face value and focus on the objective reality rather than the subjective truth.

You can question the reality of your "little s" story and elevate the truth quotient by engaging with your sanctuary. Begin by taking control of the physical aspects of your personal and private space. Clear out any clutter, and straighten things up. Decorate the space with things that you care about and that remind you that this is your space. It's important that you look forward to spending time in your private space. Clarify the boundaries of your space and take charge of who you invite into your space and when. And while you're doing this, become more conscious of how your story inhabits and expresses through your personal and private space. Look more closely at the external appearance of your "little s" story in your sanctuary, and you can discover the truth of your "Big S" Story. The more you are willing to drop every part of your story that isn't absolutely true or isn't your business, the more you will be able to protect your privacy so you can rest and recharge your batteries.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your story and your sanctuary resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your story and your sanctuary resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Where do you look for your story in your personal and private space? How do you express your story through your belongings and decorations?

How is your experience of your story in your private life and your sanctuary different from how you experience it in the rest of your life?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

What are some examples of how a problem with your story makes it hard for you to rest or recharge?

Where do you need to experience your story in your private life and your sanctuary? Where is it lacking?

What is your story about your sanctuary? What does it mean to you? What role does it play in your life? How is it a recurring theme or challenge for you?

How does your story about your sanctuary and your private life limit you and keep you small?

How much of your story about your sanctuary and your private life is true? What happens to that story when you drop every part of the story that is not part of My Business because it's not your responsibility or you can't actually do anything to change or control it?

Your understanding and communication are your foundation; your foundation is your understanding and communication.

Understanding and communication is the foundation of your life. All that you hope to be, do, express, or create builds on this foundation. When you have a personal understanding of truth, your foundation is rock solid and unshakable. It creates stability in all parts of your life. But when you do not understand truth and look to other people to validate your perceptions of reality, your foundation is weak and unstable. No matter how much progress you make in your life, even the smallest disruption brings everything crashing down like a house of cards. On a personal level, when you lack understanding, any miscommunication or misunderstanding is a major crisis. It shakes your foundation, and you feel the aftershocks in every part of your life. You have to drop everything to address the crisis and stabilize your foundation, no matter how inconvenient that may be. You want to have a solid foundation for your life because you believe that will mean the structures in your life will survive a major earthquake. And when you don't have to worry that your life might come crashing down around you, you will understand everything.

You long for a personal understanding of truth. When you communicate, you look outside of yourself to validate your subjective experience of reality to verify its level of truth. The problem with communication is that so much gets lost in translation. You have to create a context for the words for them to have any meaning. You rely on the context of your foundation to understand the world. When you communicate, you translate your perceptions into the language of your foundation. When you receive new information from any source, you filter that information through the lens of your foundation so that you can understand how it fits in your subjective reality. But you can't assume that other people use the same filters, or that other people choose the same parts of their lives to be their foundations.

You can deepen your understanding and improve the quality of your communication by engaging with your foundation. Take a closer look at the story of your life and identify your external foundation. It could be your health, your home, your job, your relationships, your children, your finances, or your creative expression (to name only a few examples). You know something is a part of your foundation because when anything messes with that part of your life, the alarm bells go off and you feel the tremors everywhere. Now consider how understanding and communication relate to your external foundation. Begin to consider those parts of your life from the context of your need to understand and communicate truth, and explore how you can enhance your awareness of truth. Deepen your understanding of each component of your external foundation. Become aware of how you communicate with and through that part of your life, and evaluate how effective that communication is. Not only will this strengthen your actual foundation, but it will also protect the parts of your life that make up your external foundation. The more conscious you are of the filters that govern how you understand and communicate, the more stable the foundation of your life will be.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and your foundation resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and your foundation resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What are some examples of the things that make up your external foundation? What parts of your life (like your job, your home, your relationship, your money, your car, your cell phone, your computer, etc.) are of such fundamental importance to you that if anything disrupts them, the rest of your life doesn't function?

Choose one example of a part of your external foundation. What is it that you need to understand and communicate about that part of your life to feel stable and secure with it? How can that part of your life be disrupted by a lack of communication or a misunderstanding?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you experience understanding and communication as the foundation of your life? What happens to your life when something disrupts your ability to understand or communicate?

How do you need to experience understanding and communication to feel like you have a stable foundation for your life?

When something disrupts your understanding or communication and shakes your foundation, how do you respond to the crisis? What do you do to stabilize your foundation?

What are some of the ways that you communicate with your foundation? How well do other people usually understand your message?

How do you use your foundation to understand other people? What do you learn about other people by observing how they engage with their foundation?

Your understanding and communication are your sanctuary; your sanctuary is your understanding and communication.

Understanding and communication are your sanctuary. It's your home, your private retreat where you go to rest, recover, and recharge your batteries. You want understanding because you expect it to give you relief and respite. As far as you're concerned, communication is personal and private and understanding occurs on a need to know basis. When you have a personal understanding of truth, you always have access to your sanctuary and you can easily take care of your personal needs and your private life. You can balance your own personal needs with the demands of the world. But when you do not understand truth and look to other people to validate your perceptions of reality, you never quite feel at home. You find it difficult to unplug from the world and take care of yourself. You do not have adequate protection from the stress and demands of your life. You feel ungrounded, unsettled, and unstable. On a personal level, when you lack understanding, it creates disruptions in your actual home and personal space that make it difficult for you to relax. These can range from the physical (clutter, disorder, damage) to the social (lack of privacy, conflict with the people you live with). You want to be able to retreat to your private sanctuary where you can hide from the world and focus on your personal needs because you believe when you are able to rest and recharge your batteries, you will understand everything.

You long for a personal understanding of truth. When you communicate, you look outside of yourself to validate your subjective experience of reality to verify its level of truth. The problem with communication is that so much gets lost in translation. You have to create a context for the words for them to have any meaning. You rely on the context of your sanctuary to understand the world. When you communicate, you translate your perceptions into the language of your sanctuary. When you receive new information from any source, you filter that information through the lens of your sanctuary so that you can understand how it fits in your subjective reality. But you can't assume that other people use the same filters.

You can deepen your understanding and improve the quality of your communication by engaging with your sanctuary. Begin by taking control of the physical aspects of your personal and private space. Clear out any clutter, and straighten things up. Decorate the space with things that you care about and that remind you that this is your space. It's important that you look forward to spending time in your private space. Clarify the boundaries of your space and take charge of who you invite into your space and when. And while you're doing this, become more conscious of how your understanding of truth and your need to communicate truth inhabits and expresses through your personal and private space. As you become conscious of this in your sanctuary, you can begin to notice how you apply the same filters to help you understand and communicate truth in other parts of your life, too. The more conscious you are of the filters that govern how you understand and communicate, the more you will be able to protect your privacy so you can rest and recharge your batteries.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and your sanctuary resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and your sanctuary resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Where do you look for understanding and communication in your personal and private space? How do you express understanding and communication through your belongings and decorations?

How is your experience of understanding and communication in your private life and your sanctuary different from how you experience it in the rest of your life?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How does understanding and communication help you to rest and recharge?

What are some examples of how a problem with understanding or communication makes it hard for you to rest or recharge?

Where do you need to experience understanding and communication in your private life and your sanctuary? Where is it lacking?

What are some of the ways that you communicate with your sanctuary and your private life? How well do other people usually understand your message?

How do you use your sanctuary and your private life to understand other people? What do you learn about other people by observing how they engage with their private lives and their sanctuaries?

Mercury, the Ruler of your Fourth House in Houses

The house occupied by the ruler of the Fourth House shows where you most rely on your foundation. The resources available in this house are essential to you, and they take priority. These resources keep your foundation strong and stable. This is also the house where you are the most conscious of the influence and expectations of your parents, and of your father in particular.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video lesson on Mercury that explores the house that Mercury, the Ruler of your Fourth House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by Mercury, the Ruler of your Fourth House. Now, go back and revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience Mercury as the ruler of your Fourth House, and notice how the house Mercury occupies influences your understanding.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the First House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your First House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to make your story more interesting, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to understand and communicate, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to create a stable foundation for your life, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Second House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Second House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to make your story more interesting. You will spend money and use your talents to understand and communicate. You will spend money and use your talents to create a stable foundation for your life. And you will spend money and use your talents to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Third House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Third House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to make your story more interesting, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to understand and communicate, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to create a stable foundation for your life, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Fourth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Fourth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your sanctuary, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you make your story more interesting, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you understand and communicate, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you create a stable foundation for your life, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, because it's personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy may disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Fifth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Fifth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to make your story more interesting, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to understand and communicate, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to create a stable foundation for your life, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Sixth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Sixth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to make your story more interesting, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to understand and communicate, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to create a stable foundation for your life, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Seventh House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Seventh House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to make your story more interesting for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to understand and communicate for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to create a stable foundation for your life for you and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Eighth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Eighth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to make your story more interesting. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to understand and communicate. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to create a stable foundation for your life. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Ninth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Ninth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to make your story more interesting because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to understand and communicate because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to create a stable foundation for your life because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the Tenth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Tenth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to make your story more interesting, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to understand and communicate, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to create a stable foundation for your life, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the Eleventh House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to make your story more interesting so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to understand and communicate so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to create a stable foundation for your life so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the Twelfth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your story, your understanding and communication, your foundation, and your sanctuary. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to make your story more interesting, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to understand and communicate, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to create a stable foundation for your life, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.