

Mercury Rules the Twelfth House

The Twelfth House is sorrow, adversity, self-sabotage, unconscious behavior, and hidden enemies. In almost every sense, the Twelfth House is your shadow. You can't see your own Twelfth House, but because it's above the horizon, it's visible to everyone else. Maintaining right relationship with the planet that rules the Twelfth House limits the challenges associated with this house.

The Twelfth House is the vehicle of your adversity.

The planet that rules your Twelfth House is the vehicle of your adversity. It means well, but whenever there's trouble in your life, it can usually be traced back to something you did that involved the needs, lessons, or expression of that planet. When you are out of alignment with this planet, it's how you sabotage yourself and create optional suffering in your life. Generally, the problems that result from this planet are unexpected and unintentional. You don't realize how much of a mess you make when you pursue the needs of this planet or try to understand how its Universal Puzzle Piece fits in your life. You can't help making the mess, but when you're in right relationship with the planet, you make the effort to clean up after yourself. This makes the unintended consequences less frequent and limits the impact when they do occur. But if you're out of alignment with this planet, you neglect the mess, and make every part of your life more difficult than it has to be.

The real challenge with the Twelfth House is that the planet that rules your Twelfth House is the vehicle of all of the adversity you experience in your life, and this is often difficult to accept. Many of the obstacles and challenges you experience seem to come from outside of you and appear to be beyond your personal control or influence. You experience sorrow and defeat and difficulties and accept that they're just a part of life. But the truth is that you create everything in your "little r" reality through the Law of Attraction. Everything you experience is a match to the vibration of your consciousness, and that includes both the problems that you realize you created and the problems you can't believe that you could have created. When you work to maintain right relationship with the planet that rules your Twelfth House, you protect yourself from both types of problems. You don't notice the suffering you don't experience, and that's rather the point.

The Twelfth House is your blind spot.

The Twelfth House, and the planet that rules your Twelfth House, is your blind spot. It lurks in your unconscious, just outside your field of vision, so you don't notice it until it's too late. Your behaviors and actions involving the planet that rules your Twelfth House create resentment in other people, and that resentment can turn friends into hidden enemies. They're not actively looking to harm you, but as their resentment builds, they unconsciously begin to look for any opportunity where they can trip you up or let you down when you most need them. If you don't address that resentment and clean up your mess, it will come back to bite you. You'll never see it coming, either. You'll be completely blindsided, and since their behavior was unconscious, the friendship will probably survive—and your hidden enemy will still be at large.

It requires extra effort to maintain right relationship with the planet that rules your Twelfth House. Blind spots are so dangerous not because you can't see them clearly, but because you forget they're there at all, so you don't check them regularly. When you express or try to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House, you're going to cross boundaries and step on toes. That planet is just messy for you. That's why it's so important to check your blind spot. Identify when you've made a mistake, accept responsibility for it, and apologize. A simple "I'm sorry" can clean up a whole lot of resentment, and go a long way towards keeping your friends your friends.

Mercury Rules the Twelfth House

Your story is the vehicle of your adversity; the vehicle of your adversity is your story.

Your story is the vehicle of your adversity. Time and again, when you try to question the reality of your "little s" story and pursue the truth of your "Big S" Story, it has unexpected, unintended, and unwelcome consequences. When you actively search for the deeper meaning of your story and pursue the truth within your reality, you manage to avoid most of the optional suffering in your life. You periodically check to see how other people perceive your behavior, especially your behaviors involving your story, and you clean up whatever messes you have made before they become bigger problems. When you accept the appearance of the reality of your "little s" story and fail to look for a deeper meaning, your behaviors are disruptive and create unnecessary problems and challenges. You approach your story from First Kingdom/Victim Consciousness and use force when you try to pursue the truth of your "Big S" Story. This creates a counterforce that shows up as obstacles and adversity. You don't always see the connection between the cause and effect because there's often a delay and the adversity may not be directly related to your choices, but the adversity you experience is the Law of Attraction in action. You want to avoid suffering, sorrow, and adversity because you believe that without these problems, you won't be bored with the story of your life.

You long to answer the call to your greatness, escape the confines of your “little s” story and become the hero of the “Big S” Story of your life. Your “Big S” Story is engaging, exciting, compelling, and endlessly entertaining, while your “little s” story is tedious and uninspiring. The difference between the two is that your “little s” story is just real, but your “Big S” story is true. Nothing in your “little s” story is about what it appears to be about. Everything in your reality is a metaphor that contains hidden depths of meaning. When you question your story, you can discover the truth that will give your life meaning and purpose. You must begin by questioning the story of the vehicle of your adversity, because this is the area of your life where you take things at face value and focus on the objective reality rather than the subjective truth. You create adversity for yourself by focusing on your “little s” story, and that adversity shows up within your “little s” story. The way to overcome that adversity is to connect to the truth of your “Big S” Story.

You can question the reality of your “little s” story and elevate the truth quotient by engaging with the vehicle of your adversity. Think of a few examples of situations where you have sabotaged yourself, created obstacles, or just unintentionally crossed a line or put your foot in your mouth. Focus on the smaller stories, because it will be easier for you to consider those objectively. Review the story of what happened, and your story of why you think it happened. Then go back and review it again, but this time, notice that the real source of the problem is how you engaged with your story. If you look carefully, you will discover that your relationship to your story, and specifically the fact that you believed in the reality of your “little s” story rather than the truth of your “Big S” Story is the common thread that connects almost every experience of sorrow and adversity in your life. By paying attention to your story and becoming more skilled with finding the truth of your story, you can limit how much you sabotage yourself. The more you are willing to drop every part of your story that isn't absolutely true or isn't your business, the more you avoid optional suffering and adversity.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your story and the vehicle of your adversity resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your story and the vehicle of your adversity resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of a time when your behavior or choices created problems for you. How did your pursuit of your story contribute to the difficulties?

What are some other examples where your pursuit of your story created challenges for you?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How has your pursuit of your story created problems and obstacles for you?

Do you approach your story from lack consciousness? Do you see it as a limited resource that you have to compete for? Is that true? Why or why not?

What is your story about the vehicle of your adversity? What does it mean to you? What role does it play in your life? How is it a recurring theme or challenge for you?

How does your story about your adversity limit you and keep you small?

How much of your story about the vehicle of your adversity is true? What happens to that story when you drop every part of the story that is not part of My Business because it's not your responsibility or you can't actually do anything to change or control it?

Your story is your blind spot; your blind spot is your story.

Your story is your blind spot. It lurks in your unconscious, just outside of your field of vision, so you don't notice it until it's too late. Your behaviors and actions involving your story create resentment in other people, and that resentment can turn friends into hidden enemies. When you actively search for the deeper meaning of your story and pursue the truth within your reality, you check your blind spot regularly. You always proceed with caution when you question the reality of your "little s" story and pursue the truth of your "Big S" Story, because it's better to be safe than sorry. You still make mistakes, but because you own your mistakes and apologize for them, you limit the amount of resentment others feel towards you. When you accept the appearance of the reality of your "little s" story and fail to look for a deeper meaning, you ignore your blind spot and move full speed ahead. This works until it doesn't, and you're blindsided by a problem. A little more attention or a timely apology could have nipped it in the bud. On a personal level, when you focus on your "little s" story, you are surrounded by hidden enemies. When you least expect it, they will trip you up, often using your story as a weapon against you. You would like to think that you are fully conscious of everything in your world because you believe that when you don't have a blind spot, you won't be bored with the story of your life.

You long to answer the call to your greatness, escape the confines of your "little s" story and become the hero of the "Big S" Story of your life. Your "Big S" Story is engaging, exciting, compelling, and endlessly entertaining, while your "little s" story is tedious and uninspiring. The difference between the two is that your "little s" story is just real, but your "Big S" story is true. Nothing in your "little s" story is about what it appears to be about. Everything in your reality is a metaphor that contains hidden depths of meaning. When you question your story, you can discover the truth that will give your life meaning and purpose. You must begin by questioning the story of your blind spot, because this is the area of your life where you take things at face value and focus on the objective reality rather than the subjective truth. Your blind spot is your “Big S” Story. You have to make a conscious effort to find the truth in your reality so you aren’t limited by the appearance of your “little s” story. And if you don’t pay attention to your blind spot, your “Big S” Story will blindsides you and force you to notice it.

You can question the reality of your “little s” story and elevate the truth quotient by engaging with your blind spot. Because you don’t normally see your blind spot, you have to make an extra effort to check it. You need to develop a habit of looking for the truth of your “Big S” Story in your life, much like you have a habit of looking both ways before you cross the street—and for precisely the same reason. It’s not that you don’t notice your “Big S” Story. Rather it’s that you don’t see all of it. You miss the edges and the fringes, and that’s where your “Big S” Story causes problems for you. When you focus on the reality of your “little s” story, it can create resentment in others and turn friends into hidden enemies. But with practice and attention, you can avoid being blindsided. The more you are willing to drop every part of your story that isn’t absolutely true or isn’t your business, the more conscious you are of your blind spot.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your story and your blind spot resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your story and your blind spot resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn’t seem to apply to you and why?

What is an example of a time when you were blindsided by a problem with your story?

Could you have avoided this experience if you had been paying attention to your blind spot with your story? Why or why not?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

Where has your pursuit of your story caused other people to resent you?

How have other people used your story against you?

What is your story about your blind spot? What does it mean to you? What role does it play in your life? How is it a recurring theme or challenge for you?

How does your story about your blind spot limit you and keep you small?

How much of your story about your blind spot is true? What happens to that story when you drop every part of the story that is not part of My Business because it's not your responsibility or you can't actually do anything to change or control it?

Your understanding and communication is the vehicle of your adversity; the vehicle of your adversity is your understanding and communication.

Understanding and communication is the vehicle of your adversity. Time and again, when you try to understand and communicate truth, it has unexpected, unintended, and unwelcome consequences. When you have a personal understanding of truth, you manage to avoid most of the optional suffering in your life. You periodically check to see how other people perceive your behavior, especially your behaviors involving understanding and communication, and you clean up whatever messes you have made before they become bigger problems. When you do not understand truth and look to other people to validate your perceptions of reality, your behaviors are disruptive and create unnecessary problems and challenges. You approach understanding and communication from First Kingdom/Victim Consciousness and use force when you try to understand and communicate truth. This creates a counter-force that shows up as obstacles and adversity. You don't always see the connection between the cause and effect because there's often a delay and the adversity may not be directly related to your choices, but the adversity you experience is the Law of Attraction in action. You want to avoid suffering, sorrow, and adversity because you believe that without these problems, you will understand everything.

You long for a personal understanding of truth. When you communicate, you look outside of yourself to validate your subjective experience of reality to verify its level of truth. The problem with communication is that so much gets lost in translation. You have to create a context for the words for them to have any meaning. You rely on the context of the vehicle of your adversity to understand the world. When you communicate, you translate your perceptions into the language of the vehicle of your adversity. When you receive new information from any source, you filter that information through the lens of the vehicle of your adversity so that you can understand how it fits in your subjective reality. You consider this to be a rational and intelligent approach, but to other people it may seem that you are pessimistic and only see the problems and challenges. You think that anticipating problems will limit them and therefore make the good things more obvious, but it only creates more problems.

You can deepen your understanding and improve the quality of your communication by engaging with the vehicle of your adversity. Think of a few examples of situations where you have sabotaged yourself, created obstacles, or just unintentionally crossed a line or put your foot in your mouth. Focus on the smaller stories, because it will be easier for you to consider those objectively. Review the story of what happened, and your story of why you think it happened. Then go back and review it again, but this time, notice that the real source of the problem is how you handled your understanding and communication. If you look carefully, you will discover that your understanding of truth and your ability to communicate that understanding is the common thread that connects almost every experience of sorrow and adversity in your life. By paying attention to how you understand and communicate and becoming more skilled with it, you can limit how much you sabotage yourself. Take the extra time to make sure that other people understand exactly what you mean. The more conscious you are of the filters that govern how you understand and communicate, the more you avoid optional suffering and adversity.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and the vehicle of your adversity resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and the vehicle of your adversity resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of a time when your behavior or choices created problems for you. How did your pursuit of understanding and communication contribute to the difficulties?

What are some other examples where your pursuit of understanding and communication created challenges for you?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

Do you approach understanding and communication from lack consciousness? Do you see it as a limited resource that you have to compete for? Is that true? Why or why not?

What are some of the ways that you communicate with the vehicle of your adversity? How well do other people usually understand your message?

How do you use the vehicle of your adversity to understand other people? What do you learn about other people by observing how they engage with the vehicles of their adversity?

Your understanding and communication are your blind spot; your blind spot is your understanding and communication.

Understanding and communication is your blind spot. It lurks in your unconscious, just outside of your field of vision, so you don't notice it until it's too late. Your behaviors and actions involving understanding and communication create resentment in other people, and that resentment can turn friends into hidden enemies. When you have a personal understanding of truth, you check your blind spot regularly. You always proceed with caution when you understand and communicate truth, because it's better to be safe than sorry. You still make mistakes, but because you own your mistakes and apologize for them, you limit the amount of resentment others feel towards you. When you do not understand truth and look to other people to validate your perceptions of reality, you ignore your blind spot and move full speed ahead. This works until it doesn't, and you're blindsided by a problem. A little more attention or a timely apology could have nipped it in the bud. On a personal level, when you lack understanding, you are surrounded by hidden enemies. When you least expect it, they will trip you up, often using understanding and communication as a weapon against you. You would like to think that you are fully conscious of everything in your world because you believe that when you don't have a blind spot, you will understand everything.

You long for a personal understanding of truth. When you communicate, you look outside of yourself to validate your subjective experience of reality to verify its level of truth. The problem with communication is that so much gets lost in translation. You have to create a context for the words for them to have any meaning. You rely on the context of your blind spot to understand the world. When you communicate, you translate your perceptions into the language of your blind spot. When you receive new information from any source, you filter that information through the lens of your blind spot so that you can understand how it fits in your subjective reality. The theory is that this will help you to understand things that you would ordinarily miss. In practice, it often means that you focus on peripheral details and miss the obvious—and most important—parts of the message.

You can deepen your understanding and improve the quality of your communication by engaging with your blind spot. Because you don't normally see your blind spot, you have to make an extra effort to check it. You need to develop a habit of looking for understanding and communication in your life, much like you have a habit of looking both ways before you cross the street—and for precisely the same reason. It's not that you don't notice understanding and communication in your life. Rather it's that you don't see all of it. You miss the edges and the fringes, and that's where a lack of understanding and miscommunication creates problems for you, creating resentment in others and turning friends into hidden enemies. But with practice and attention, you can avoid being blindsided. The more conscious you are of the filters that govern how you understand and communicate, the more conscious you are of your blind spot.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and your blind spot resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your understanding and communication and your blind spot resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What is an example of a time when you were blindsided by a problem with understanding and communication?

Could you have avoided this experience if you had been paying attention to your blind spot with understanding and communication? Why or why not?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

Where has your pursuit of understanding and communication caused other people to resent you?

How have other people used understanding and communication against you?

What are some of the ways that you communicate with your blind spot? How well do other people usually understand your message?

How do you use your blind spot to understand other people? What do you learn about other people by observing how they engage with their blind spots?

Mercury, the Ruler of your Twelfth House in Houses

The house occupied by the Ruler of the Twelfth House shows where you sabotage yourself and where your unconscious behavior creates resentments and hidden enemies. Pay close attention to how you use the resources of this house, because in the hands of the Sun, the Ruler of your Twelfth House, those resources may create problems for you.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video lesson on Mercury that explores the house that Mercury, the Ruler of your Twelfth House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by Mercury, the Ruler of your Twelfth House. Now, revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience Mercury as the ruler of your Twelfth House, and notice how the house Mercury occupies influences your understanding.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the First House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your First House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to make your story more interesting, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to understand and communicate, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to sabotage yourself, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to check your blind spot, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Second House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Second House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to make your story more interesting. You will spend money and use your talents to understand and communicate. You will spend money and use your talents to sabotage yourself. And you will spend money and use your talents to check your blind spot. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Third House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Third House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to make your story more interesting, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to understand and communicate, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to sabotage yourself, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to check your blind spot, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Fourth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Fourth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your home, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you make your story more interesting, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you understand and communicate, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you sabotage yourself, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you check your blind spot, because it's personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy may disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Fifth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Fifth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to make your story more interesting, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to understand and communicate, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to sabotage yourself, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to check your blind spot, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Sixth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Sixth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to make your story more interesting, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to understand and communicate, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to sabotage yourself, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to check your blind spot, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Seventh House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Seventh House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to make your story more interesting for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to understand and communicate for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to sabotage yourself for you and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to check your blind spot for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Eighth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Eighth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to make your story more interesting. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to understand and communicate. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to sabotage yourself. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to check your blind spot. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the in the Ninth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Ninth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to make your story more interesting because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to understand and communicate because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to sabotage yourself because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to check your blind spot because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the Tenth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Tenth House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to make your story more interesting, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to understand and communicate, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to sabotage yourself, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to check your blind spot, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the Eleventh House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to make your story more interesting so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to understand and communicate so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to sabotage yourself so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to check your blind spot so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in the Twelfth House

With Mercury, the Ruler of the Twelfth House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your story, your understanding and communication, the vehicle of your adversity, and your blind spot. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to make your story more interesting, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to understand and communicate, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to sabotage yourself, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to check your blind spot, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.