

Jupiter Rules the Second House

Both directly and indirectly the Second House is about money. It represents your financial resources, your salary, your earning potential, and your actual money. It also represents your skills and talents, which show how you can earn money. The planet that rules the Second House shows your attitudes towards money, and the skills that you have available to you to earn money.

The Second House is your money.

The Second House is your money and resources. It's every tangible asset that you can call "mine." The planet that rules your Second House is your money. It determines your attitudes towards money, how you earn money, how you manage money, and how you spend money. Because money is such a major concern in your life, it's important to understand the truth about money. You confuse money with prosperity, which is what you really care about, and while they're related, they're not the same thing.

Prosperity is the experience of absolute sufficiency. When you are prosperous, all of your material needs are met. More importantly, prosperity means that you are able to enjoy the experience of sufficiency because all of your emotional, psychological, and spiritual needs are met as well. Money seems to be an essential part of prosperity because money seems to make it possible (or at least easier) to meet your material needs, and prosperous people always have plenty of money flowing through their lives. But the truth is that money is the effect of prosperity, not the cause of it. When you meet the needs and learn the lessons of the planet that rules your Second House, you create prosperity.

You don't care about money. You care about the things that money represents. Money is energy, and energy is infinite. Money often shows up as a conduit that facilitates the experiences that you care about, just as electricity is a conduit that powers your appliances and charges your phone. You don't worry about how electricity works and you don't obsess about moving it from the power plant to the outlet to your television. Worrying about money is no different. Money is none of your business. Focus on the truth that you live in an infinite Universe, direct your attention towards the experiences you would like to create, and connect with your prosperity. The energy of money will flow freely through your life, and just like electricity, you'll be able to take it for granted, knowing when you need it, it will be there for you.

The Second House is your skills and talents.

The Second House represents your skills and talents. Specifically, it represents skills and talents that you can use to experience prosperity and earn money. The skills that help you to experience prosperity are intangible skills that connect you with the truth and help you reject the appearance of lack, limitation, and competition in your reality. These skills involve mastering the expressions of the planet that rules your Second House. The skills that help you to earn money are tangible; they're the talents you brag about on your résumé. Just as money is the effect of prosperity, your tangible skills are the effect of your intangible skills.

No one is born talented. You develop skills by rewiring the brain and upgrading specific neural pathways. The Talent Code, by Daniel Coyle (a book I can't recommend highly enough), explores how we develop skills and become talented through a process called deep practice. Deep practice is slow and focused, and it also requires struggle. The struggle causes the brain to upgrade the neural pathway by wrapping it in myelin. Consistent struggle is a requirement to develop skills, and upgrading your neural network takes time. You won't notice any improvement in your tangible skills until you've finished upgrading the circuits, so you need something to motivate you to stay the course. The needs of the planet that rules your Second House motivate you. They push you to stick with the deep practice and to endure the struggle and frustration until you see results.

Jupiter Rules the Second House

Your growth is your money; your money is your growth.

For you, growth is hard currency. Your growth and expansion has value and can be exchanged for goods and services, and even for cash. When you grow and expand in all areas of your life, you create prosperity. Other people see your value and want to compensate you for it. You experience absolute sufficiency because all of your material needs are met, and you enjoy that sufficiency because your emotional, psychological, and spiritual needs are met as well. But when your growth is uneven and you are too much in some dimensions and not enough in others, you experience lack in every dimension of your life. You notice this on a personal level because you never seem to have enough money. When you don't feel like you're growing, you worry about money. No matter what you do, there always seems to be more money going out than there is coming in. When you appreciate your sufficiency in this moment, and recognize the truth that right now, in this moment, you have all you need, your sufficiency will grow. The real reason you care about money is that you believe that when you have enough money, you won't feel limited, stuck, or restricted.

Growth is about fulfilling your potential in every dimension. The only way to track your growth is to compare where you are now to where you were in the past. When you fulfill your current potential, the outer limits of your potential automatically expand, which creates new opportunities so you never feel stuck. If you encounter a boundary and feel limited or constrained by it, this means that you have unexplored potential somewhere else. If you push past the boundary and reach for more before you have made full use of what you have, you will be out of balance. You will be too much in some dimensions and not enough in others. This is especially important with your money. Money appears to be the essential fuel for growth. You focus your attention on all of the ways you could expand your life if only you had more money, and the lack of money becomes the obstacle that keeps you from growing. You don't need money to tap your unexplored potential. And when you fulfill that potential, money will no longer be an obstacle.

The best way to evaluate your growth and locate your untapped potential is to engage with your money and finances. Consider that in your life, money is really about growth. Money flows in your life when you connect with your growth and fulfill your potential. When you lose your connection to your untapped potential and care only about the money, expecting money to facilitate your growth, you create the experience of lack. Take some time to consider your relationship to your money and finances. Find your untapped potential in how you earn your money, and maximize the value you create for your employer, clients, and customers. Look for your untapped potential in how you spend your money. Identify how saving money and investing money helps you access your potential and expand beyond your current limits. When you become conscious of how you grow through your financial affairs, you will be able to recognize your growth in other parts of your life. The more you experience balanced growth in every dimension, the more prosperity you will enjoy.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your growth and your money resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your growth and your money resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Think about how you earn money in your life. What are some examples of how you have grown or fulfilled your potential and seen an increase in your money (such as your salary) as a result?

What are some examples of how you have received money, and that money has helped or prompted you to grow, expand, or fulfill your potential?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you use money to grow and expand?

How does the balance in your checking account affect how you feel about your growth?

What does the balance in your checking account tell you about your relationship to your untapped potential?

How do you measure or evaluate growth with your money? What do you use as a comparative reference?

Where do you feel that you are not enough with your money and prosperity? What are you basing this on? How will you know when you are enough?

Where do you feel that you are too much with your money and resources? What are you basing this on? What boundary did you cross and who created that boundary?

Your growth is your skills and talents; your skills and talents are your growth.

Because growth is a skill, it doesn't come naturally to you. It's something you have to learn, practice, and train for, and the more time you invest in mastering it, the more talented you become at it. This matters because growth motivates you to develop every other skill and talent in your life. When you grow and expand in all areas, you easily acquire new skills and improve your current skills. Your talents have value and make substantial contributions to your prosperity. But when your growth is uneven and you are too much in some dimensions and not enough in others, you don't excel at anything. At best, you are competent at the things you care about, but none of your skills are advanced enough to command attention or compensation. You lack the inspiration and motivation to improve. Developing talent involves consistent struggle, and without something to push you, it's difficult to stay the course. You want to excel and be the best because you believe that when you are the best, you won't feel limited, stuck, or restricted.

Growth is about fulfilling your potential in every dimension. The only way to track your growth is to compare where you are now to where you were in the past. When you fulfill your current potential, the outer limits of your potential automatically expand, which creates new opportunities so you never feel stuck. If you encounter a boundary and feel limited or constrained by it, this means that you have unexplored potential somewhere else. If you push past the boundary and reach for more before you have made full use of what you have, you will be out of balance. You will be too much in some dimensions and not enough in others. This is especially important with your skills and talents. You are always inspired to grow your talents and expand your skills, but it's important to consider the big picture. If you focus only on getting better at what you already do well, your skills will become too specialized to be useful. Instead, invest the time and energy to develop skills that support and enhance the talents you already have.

The best way to evaluate your growth and locate your untapped potential is to engage with your skills and talents. Pick any skill that you would like to learn or improve, and follow a structured program of consistent, daily practice to develop it. Remember that the goal is less about mastering the new skill and more about growth. You will use growth and expansion to motivate you to stick with the program, overcome your resistance, and practice consistently. It's important that you track your progress in multiple dimensions and that you don't focus exclusively on the end result. Compare where you are today to where you were yesterday, not to where you would like to be in the future. When you recognize incremental progress on a daily basis, the awareness of your growth will keep you motivated to master the skill. The more you experience balanced growth in every dimension, the more you will excel and be prospered by your talents.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your growth and your skills and talents resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your growth and your skills and talents resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of something you are good at. How do you measure your progress with that skill? Where are you called to grow, expand, or fulfill your potential with that skill?

When you develop new skills or evolve to the next level with your current skills, does that ever encourage you to grow or explore your untapped potential in other parts of your life? Why or why not?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you practice and train to develop your skills at growing and expanding?

How have other people functioned as your coach to help you get better at growing? Who gives you feedback and helps you correct your mistakes?

How does growth show up in your life as a marketable skill? How does your skill with growth and expansion help you to earn money?

How do you measure or evaluate growth with your skills and talents? What do you use as a comparative reference?

Where do you feel that you are not enough with your skills and talents? What are you basing this on? How will you know when you are enough?

Where do you feel that you are too much with your skills and talents? What are you basing this on? What boundary did you cross and who created that boundary?

Your faith is your money; your money is your faith.

For you, faith is hard currency. Your faith has value and can be exchanged for goods and services, and even for cash. When you actively build your faith and access it on a regular basis, you create prosperity in your life. Other people see your value and want to compensate you for it. You experience absolute sufficiency because all of your material needs are met, and you enjoy that sufficiency because your emotional, psychological, and spiritual needs are met as well. But if you are not willing to test your faith, or even worse, if your faith is all for show and lacks a personal connection, you experience lack in every dimension of your life. You notice this on a personal level because you never seem to have enough money. When you lack faith, you worry about money. No matter what you do, there always seems to be more money going out than there is coming in. When you appreciate your sufficiency in this moment, and recognize the truth that right now, in this moment, you have all you need, your sufficiency will grow. The real reason you care about money is that you believe that when you have enough money, you won't have to worry about being betrayed.

Sometimes the truth is just beyond the limits of your reality. You can grasp the idea that the Universe is infinite and all of your needs can easily be met, but you don't see the evidence of that in your life. This is what faith is for. Faith is how you build a bridge between your reality and the truth. Faith begins with an idea or a belief. You invest your energy in the idea so that it becomes real to you, and then you accept it without question. When your faith is built on objective truth, it will always support you. But if your faith lacks a foundation of truth, when you need it most, it will abandon you, leaving you broken and betrayed. You invest your faith in money, so the nature of your faith in money is important. If you have faith in the truth about money—that money is energy and energy is infinite—then money will flow freely in your life. But if you have faith in the appearance of money as a limited resource, or faith that you need money to survive, your faith will not support you because it lacks truth.

You can become conscious of your faith by engaging with your money and finances. Consider that in your life, money is really about faith. Money flows in your life when you connect with your faith. When you lose your connection to your faith in the truth that money is infinite and instead make choices based only on obtaining money, you create the experience of lack. Take some time to consider your relationship to your money and finances. Discover where your faith shows up in how you earn your money, and whether that faith is in prosperity or lack. Find your faith in how you spend your money. Identify your faith in how you save your money and how you invest your money. Build the awareness that your money is how you connect to your faith, and you will become conscious of how faith shows up in the rest of your life. The more you invest your faith in the truth, the more prosperity you will enjoy.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your faith and your money resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your faith and your money resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What are some of the ways that you have faith that money will support you? Where is your faith in the source of your money?

When it comes to money, do you have faith in prosperity (there's an infinite supply of money)? Do you have faith in sufficiency (you always have enough money)? Or do you have faith in lack (you don't have enough money)? What does this look like for you?

How does your faith influence how you spend your money? What purchases do you make on faith? What purchases require proof before you will spend your money? What's the difference between them?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you use money to express faith?

How does the balance in your checking account affect how you feel about your faith?

What does the balance in your checking account tell you about your relationship to your faith?

How do you invest your faith in money? What is it that you take for granted about money without questioning it?

How has your faith in money supported you? What are some examples of how that faith was justified?

How has your faith in money not supported you? What are some examples of how your faith was misplaced and you were betrayed?

Your faith is your skills and talents; your skills and talents are your faith.

Because faith is a skill, it doesn't come naturally to you. It's something you have to learn, practice, and train for, and the more time you invest in mastering it, the more talented you become at it. This matters because faith motivates you to develop every other skill and talent in your life. When you actively build your faith and access it on a regular basis, you easily acquire new skills and improve your current skills. Your talents have value and make substantial contributions to your prosperity. But if you are not willing to test your faith, or even worse, if your faith is all for show and lacks a personal connection, you don't excel at anything. At best, you are competent at the things you care about, but none of your skills are advanced enough to command attention or compensation. You lack the inspiration and motivation to improve. Developing talent involves consistent struggle, and without something to push you, it's difficult to stay the course. You want to excel and be the best at what you do because you believe that when you are the best, you won't have to worry about being betrayed.

Sometimes the truth is just beyond the limits of your reality. You can grasp the idea that the Universe is infinite and all of your needs can easily be met, but you don't see the evidence of that in your life. This is what faith is for. Faith is how you build a bridge between your reality and the truth. Faith begins with an idea or a belief. You invest your energy in the idea so that it becomes real to you, and then you accept it without question. When your faith is built on objective truth, it will always support you. But if your faith lacks a foundation of truth, when you need it most, it will abandon you, leaving you broken and betrayed. You invest your faith in your skills and talents. You have faith that your skills will always help you to survive. You have faith that the more you excel at something, the more that skill will support you and provide for you. This faith will support you so long as you don't go too far and make your skills and talents the source of your prosperity. The moment you cross that line, your skills will betray you.

You can become conscious of your faith by engaging with your skills and talents. Pick any skill that you would like to learn or improve, and follow a structured program of consistent, daily practice to develop it. Remember that the goal is less about mastering the new skill and more about building your faith. You will use your faith to motivate you to stick with the program, overcome your resistance, and practice consistently. Make sure that you track your progress with your faith as much as you track your progress with the skill itself. You are actually building faith that you can develop that skill, and faith that the skill will contribute to your prosperity, and this faith motivates you to develop the skill. But you must connect that faith to the larger truth. The source of your prosperity is your faith that you can master any skill. The more you invest your faith in the truth, the more you will excel and be prospered by your talents.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your faith and your skills and talents resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your faith and your skills and talents resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of something you are good at. How much faith do you have in your ability to use this skill? What are the limits of your faith in your ability? Do you have faith that you can improve and meet any new challenge with your talent? Why or why not?

Where was your faith when you were developing that skill? Did you rely on your faith that you could master the skill to help you overcome your struggles while you were training? Have you given up learning other skills because you lacked faith that you could master them?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How have other people functioned as your coach to help you get better at faith? Who gives you feedback and helps you correct your mistakes?

How does faith show up in your life as a marketable skill? How does your skill with faith help you to earn money?

How do you invest your faith in your skills and talents? What is it that you take for granted about your skills and talents without questioning it?

How has your faith in your skills and talents supported you? What are some examples of how that faith was justified?

How has your faith in your skills and talents not supported you? What are some examples of how your faith was misplaced and you were betrayed?

Jupiter, the Ruler of your Second House in Houses

The house occupied by the Ruler of the Second House shows where, and occasionally how, you earn your money. You express your skills and talents using the resources available in this house. Engaging in the affairs of this house will usually increase your wealth.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video lesson on Jupiter that explores the house that Jupiter, the Ruler of your Second House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by Jupiter, the Ruler of your Second House. Now, go back and revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience Jupiter as the ruler of your Second House, and notice how the house Jupiter occupies influences your understanding.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the First House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your First House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to grow using your untapped potential, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to build and test your faith, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to earn money, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to develop your skills and talents, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Second House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Second House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to grow using your untapped potential. You will spend money and use your talents to build and test your faith. You will spend money and use your talents to earn money. And you will spend money and use your talents to develop your skills and talents. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Third House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Third House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to grow using your untapped potential, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to build and test your faith, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to earn money, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to develop your skills and talents, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Fourth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Fourth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your home, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you grow using your untapped potential, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you build and test your faith, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you earn money, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you develop your skills and talents, because it's personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy may disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Fifth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Fifth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to grow using your untapped potential, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to build and test your faith, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to earn money, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to develop your skills and talents, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Sixth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Sixth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to grow using your untapped potential, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to build and test your faith, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to earn money, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to develop your skills and talents, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Seventh House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Seventh House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to grow using your untapped potential for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to build and test your faith for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to earn money for you and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to develop your skills and talents for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Eighth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Eighth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to grow using your untapped potential. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to build and test your faith. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to earn money. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to develop your skills and talents. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the in the Ninth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Ninth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to grow using your untapped potential because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to build and test your faith because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to earn money because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to develop your skills and talents because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the Tenth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Tenth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to grow using your untapped potential, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to build and test your faith, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to earn money, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to develop your skills and talents, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the Eleventh House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to grow using your untapped potential so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to build and test your faith so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to earn money so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to develop your skills and talents so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in the Twelfth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Second House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your growth, your faith, your money, and your skills and talents. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to grow using your untapped potential, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to build and test your faith, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to earn money, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to develop your skills and talents, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.