

Jupiter Rules the Fourth House

The Fourth House is your foundation. It is the rock upon which you build your life. It represents your home, both literally (land, buildings, and real estate) and metaphorically (your private life and personal sanctuary).

The Fourth House is your foundation.

Your foundation is the bedrock of your life. It's the part of your life that must be squared away before you can devote any time or energy to anything else. When something shakes your foundation, you feel it in every part of your life. It's an earthquake, and all of your structures will be disrupted by the shock waves. If your foundation is not solid, or the disruption peaks at the top of the Richter scale, the structures of your life can come tumbling down, leaving you surrounded by rubble. Nothing can protect you from "the big one" if it hits, but a solid, stable foundation can help you to withstand quakes of smaller magnitude. You may emerge bruised, and things may fall off your shelves, but if your foundation is stable, you can escape without significant structural damage to your life.

The planet that rules the Fourth House is the foundation of your life. All that you hope to be, do, express, or create builds on this foundation. The expression of the planet is what your foundation is really about, but it may not be what you recognize as your foundation. When you look at the story of your life and your "little r" reality, your life has an external foundation. It could be your health, your home, your job, your relationship, your children, your finances, or your creative expression (to name only a few examples). It may be obvious to you, or you may not have given it much thought. But whenever anything disrupts the foundation of your life, you know it. The alarm sounds, and you feel the aftershocks everywhere. Addressing that disruption becomes your top priority. Whatever the disruption appears to be about, it's really about an issue meeting the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

The Fourth House is your sanctuary.

Traditionally, the Fourth House represents your home, but "home" doesn't capture the importance of the Fourth House. The Fourth House is more than a shelter or a place where you can store your stuff. The Fourth House is your sanctuary. It's the place where you can drop your defenses and be yourself without worrying about what anyone else thinks. Your sanctuary is where you go to rest, recover, and recharge your batteries. Your sanctuary is your sacred, private, personal space. You expect that what happens in your sanctuary will remain hidden from the world, known only to those who have earned the privilege of seeing you undefended, and who show you their undefended self in return. Your external sanctuary is your personal, private space. Unless you live alone, your sanctuary is likely to be a smaller part of your actual home, like your bedroom or office. The less privacy you have, the more critical it becomes that you protect and enjoy your internal sanctuary.

The planet that rules your Fourth House is your actual, internal sanctuary. When you meet the needs of that planet and maintain right relationship with it, you are able to meet your own needs and take care of yourself. You are able to find rest, protection, and nourishment, and recover from the demands of the world. Maintaining right relationship with this planet keeps you connected to your internal sanctuary. It's what allows you to recharge your batteries on the fly, even if you can't physically retreat from the world.

Jupiter Rules the Fourth House

Your growth is your foundation; your foundation is your growth.

Growth is the foundation of your life. All that you hope to be, do, express, or create builds on this foundation. When you grow and expand in all areas of your life, your foundation is rock solid and unshakable. It creates stability in all parts of your life. But when your growth is uneven and you are too much in some dimensions and not enough in others, your foundation is weak and unstable. No matter how much progress you make in your life, even the smallest disruption brings everything crashing down like a house of cards. On a personal level, when you don't notice your growth, any experience of "too much" or "not enough" is a major crisis. It shakes your foundation, and you feel the aftershocks in every part of your life. You have to drop everything to address the crisis and stabilize your foundation, no matter how inconvenient that may be. You want to have a solid foundation for your life because you believe that will mean the structures in your life will survive a major earthquake. And when you don't have to worry that your life might come crashing down around you, you won't feel limited, stuck, or restricted.

Growth is about fulfilling your potential in every dimension. The only way to track your growth is to compare where you are now to where you were in the past. When you fulfill your current potential, the outer limits of your potential automatically expand, which creates new opportunities so you never feel stuck. If you encounter a boundary and feel limited or constrained by it, this means that you have unexplored potential somewhere else. If you push past the boundary and reach for more before you have made full use of what you have, you will be out of balance. You will be too much in some dimensions and not enough in others.

This is especially important with your foundation. You need to believe that your foundation is growing and expanding. If you don't notice progress with your foundation, it will weaken and you will experience disruptions and instability in every part of your life.

The best way to evaluate your growth and locate your untapped potential is to engage with your foundation. Take a closer look at the story of your life and identify your external foundation. It could be your health, your home, your job, your relationships, your children, your finances, or your creative expression (to name only a few examples). You know something is a part of your foundation because when anything messes with that part of your life, the alarm bells go off and you feel the tremors everywhere. Now consider how growth relates to your external foundation. Begin to consider those parts of your life from the context of growth, and explore how you can enhance your awareness of how you are utilizing your untapped potential. Become conscious of how you measure and track your progress in these parts of your life and look for additional metrics you can use to evaluate your growth in these areas. Not only will this strengthen your actual foundation, but it will also protect the parts of your life that make up your external foundation. The more you experience balanced growth in every dimension, the more stable the foundation of your life will be.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your growth and your foundation resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your growth and your foundation resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What are some examples of the things that make up your external foundation? What parts of your life (like your job, your home, your relationship, your money, your car, your cell phone, your computer, etc.) are of such fundamental importance to you that if anything disrupts them, the rest of your life doesn't function?

Choose an example of a part of your foundation. How do you measure your growth in this part of your life? What dimensions do you track? What happens when you don't notice progress with this part of your foundation? How does that affect the rest of your life?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you need to experience growth to feel like you have a stable foundation?

When something disrupts your growth and shakes your foundation, how do you respond to the crisis? What do you do to stabilize your foundation?

How do you measure or evaluate growth with your foundation? What do you use as a comparative reference?

Where do you feel that you are not enough with your foundation? What are you basing this on? How will you know when you are enough?

Where do you feel that you are too much with your foundation? What are you basing this on? What boundary did you cross and who created that boundary?

Your growth is your sanctuary; your sanctuary is your growth.

Growth is your sanctuary. It's your home, your private retreat where you go to rest, recover, and recharge your batteries. You want to grow because you expect it will give you relief and respite. As far as you're concerned, your growth is personal and private. When you grow and expand in all areas of your life, you always have access to your sanctuary and you can easily take care of your personal needs and your private life. You can balance your own personal needs with the demands of the world. But when your growth is uneven and you are too much in some dimensions and not enough in others, you never quite feel at home. You find it difficult to unplug from the world and take care of yourself. You do not have adequate protection from the stress and demands of your life. You feel ungrounded, unsettled, and unstable. On a personal level, when you don't feel like you are growing, it creates disruptions in your actual home and personal space that make it difficult for you to relax. These can range from the physical (clutter, disorder, damage) to the social (lack of privacy, conflict with the people you live with). You want to be able to retreat to your private sanctuary where you can hide from the world and focus on your personal needs because you believe when you are able to rest and recharge your batteries, you won't feel limited, stuck, or restricted.

Growth is about fulfilling your potential in every dimension. The only way to track your growth is to compare where you are now to where you were in the past. When you fulfill your current potential, the outer limits of your potential automatically expand, which creates new opportunities so you never feel stuck. If you encounter a boundary and feel limited or constrained by it, this means that you have unexplored potential somewhere else. If you push past the boundary and reach for more before you have made full use of what you have, you will be out of balance. You will be too much in some dimensions and not enough in others. This is especially important with your sanctuary. What you need the most to be able to recharge your batteries and nourish yourself is space. When you retreat to your sanctuary, you need to be able to spread out and not worry about crossing boundaries or encroaching on other people's energy fields.

The best way to evaluate your growth and locate your untapped potential is to engage with your sanctuary. Begin by taking control of the physical aspects of your personal and private space. Clear out any clutter, and straighten things up. Decorate the space with things that you care about and that remind you that this is your space. It's important that you look forward to spending time in your private space. Clarify the boundaries of your space and take charge of who you invite into your space and when. And while you're doing this, become more conscious of how your need to grow and make use of your untapped potential inhabits and expresses through your personal and private space. It's important that you make full use of your personal space. If there's any part of your physical environment that you can't use or access, perhaps because it's too cluttered, you must clear it out so you have room to grow and expand. If you feel limited in your sanctuary, your growth will be limited in the rest of your life, too. The more you experience balanced growth in every dimension, the more you will be able to protect your privacy so you can rest and recharge your batteries.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your growth and your sanctuary resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your growth and your sanctuary resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Where do you look for growth in your personal and private space? How do you express growth through your belongings and decorations?

How is your experience of growth in your private life and your sanctuary different from how you experience it in the rest of your life?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How does growth help you to rest and recharge?

What are some examples of how a problem with your growth makes it hard for you to rest or recharge?

Where do you need to experience growth in your private life and your sanctuary? Where is it lacking?

How do you measure or evaluate growth with your sanctuary? What do you use as a comparative reference?

Where do you feel that you are not enough with your sanctuary and your private life? What are you basing this on? How will you know when you are enough?

Where do you feel that you are too much with your sanctuary or your private life? What are you basing this on? What boundary did you cross and who created that boundary?

Your faith is your foundation; your foundation is your faith.

Faith is the foundation of your life. All that you hope to be, do, express, or create builds on this foundation. When you actively build your faith and access it on a regular basis, your foundation is rock solid and unshakable. It creates stability in all parts of your life. But if you are not willing to test your faith, or even worse, if your faith is all for show and lacks a personal connection, your foundation is weak and unstable. No matter how much progress you make in your life, even the smallest disruption brings everything crashing down like a house of cards. On a personal level, when you lack faith, any time your expectations are not met, it's a major crisis. It shakes your foundation, and you feel the aftershocks in every part of your life. You have to drop everything to address the crisis and stabilize your foundation, no matter how inconvenient that may be. You want to have a solid foundation for your life because you believe that will mean the structures in your life will survive a major earthquake. And when you don't have to worry that your life might come crashing down around you, you won't have to worry about being betrayed.

Sometimes the truth is just beyond the limits of your reality. You can grasp the idea that the Universe is infinite and all of your needs can easily be met, but you don't see the evidence of that in your life. This is what faith is for. Faith is how you build a bridge between your reality and the truth. Faith begins with an idea or a belief. You invest your energy in the idea so that it becomes real to you, and then you accept it without question. When your faith is built on objective truth, it will always support you. But if your faith lacks a foundation of truth, when you need it most, it will abandon you, leaving you broken and betrayed. You invest your faith in your foundation. Specifically, you invest your faith in the parts of your life that make up your external foundation. You believe that that part of your life is your source, and that it will always be there to protect you. But the truth is that nothing within the story of your life is your source. When you invest your faith in external appearances, it creates a weak foundation for your life.

You can become conscious of your faith by engaging with your foundation. Take a closer look at the story of your life and identify your external foundation. It could be your health, your home, your job, your relationships, your children, your finances, or your creative expression (to name only a few examples). You know something is a part of your foundation because when anything messes with that part of your life, the alarm bells go off and you feel the tremors everywhere. Now consider how faith relates to your external foundation. Begin to consider those parts of your life from the context of your faith, and explore how you can enhance your awareness of your faith. Consider how, specifically, you invest your faith in the things that make up your external foundation. Most importantly, question the words that make up the belief at the core of your faith and confirm that those ideas are true. Not only will this strengthen your actual foundation, but it will also protect the parts of your life that make up your external foundation. The more you invest your faith in the truth, the more stable the foundation of your life will be.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your faith and your foundation resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your faith and your foundation resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

What are some examples of the things that make up your external foundation? What parts of your life (like your job, your home, your relationship, your money, your car, your cell phone, your computer, etc.) are of such fundamental importance to you that if anything disrupts them, the rest of your life doesn't function?

How do you invest your faith in that part of your foundation? How do you expect that it will be there to support you when you need it? How do you feel when it doesn't support you as expected and your faith is betrayed?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

---

How do you experience faith as the foundation of your life? What happens to your life when something disrupts your faith?

How do you need to experience faith to feel like you have a stable foundation for your life?

When something disrupts your faith and shakes your foundation, how do you respond to the crisis? What do you do to stabilize your foundation?

How do you invest your faith in your foundation? What is it that you take for granted about your foundation without questioning it?

How has your faith in your foundation supported you? What are some examples of how that faith was justified?

How has your faith in your foundation not supported you? What are some examples of how your faith was misplaced and you were betrayed?

Your faith is your sanctuary; your sanctuary is your faith

Faith is your sanctuary. It's your home, your private retreat where you go to rest, recover, and recharge your batteries. You want to rely on your faith because you expect it to give you relief and respite. As far as you're concerned, your faith is personal and private. When you actively build your faith and access it on a regular basis, you always have access to your sanctuary and you can easily take care of your personal needs and your private life. You can balance your own personal needs with the demands of the world. But if you are not willing to test your faith, or even worse, if your faith is all for show and lacks a personal connection, you never quite feel at home. You find it difficult to unplug from the world and take care of yourself. You do not have adequate protection from the stress and demands of your life. You feel ungrounded, unsettled, and unstable. On a personal level, when you lack faith, it creates disruptions in your actual home and personal space that make it difficult for you to relax. These can range from the physical (clutter, disorder, damage) to the social (lack of privacy, conflict with the people you live with). You want to be able to retreat to your private sanctuary where you can hide from the world and focus on your personal needs because you believe when you are able to rest and recharge your batteries, you won't have to worry about being betrayed.

Sometimes the truth is just beyond the limits of your reality. You can grasp the idea that the Universe is infinite and all of your needs can easily be met, but you don't see the evidence of that in your life. This is what faith is for. Faith is how you build a bridge between your reality and the truth. Faith begins with an idea or a belief. You invest your energy in the idea so that it becomes real to you, and then you accept it without question. When your faith is built on objective truth, it will always support you. But if your faith lacks a foundation of truth, when you need it most, it will abandon you, leaving you broken and betrayed. You invest your faith in your sanctuary. You believe in the sanctity of your home and your private life. You believe that your private space will protect you from the outside world, and that you will always feel safe there and be able to rest and recharge your batteries. And if anything disrupts your sanctuary, you experience the pain of betrayal on top of everything else.

You can become conscious of your faith by engaging with your sanctuary. Begin by taking control of the physical aspects of your personal and private space. Clear out any clutter, and straighten things up. Decorate the space with things that you care about and that remind you that this is your space. It's important that you look forward to spending time in your private space. Clarify the boundaries of your space and take charge of who you invite into your space and when. And while you're doing this, become more conscious of how your faith inhabits and expresses through your personal and private space. Become aware of how much faith you are investing in how the external appearance of your personal space helps you rest and recharge. Become aware of how much faith you are investing in your inner sanctuary, which is the truth of how you experience rest and recuperation. The more you invest your faith in the truth, the more you will be able to protect your privacy so you can rest and recharge your batteries.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

---

What part of the description of your faith and your sanctuary resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your faith and your sanctuary resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Where do you look for your faith in your personal and private space? How do you express your faith through your belongings and decorations?

How is your experience of faith in your private life and your sanctuary different from how you experience it in the rest of your life?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How does faith help you to rest and recharge?

What are some examples of how a problem with your faith makes it hard for you to rest or recharge?

Where do you need to experience faith in your private life and your sanctuary? Where is it lacking?

How do you invest your faith in your sanctuary and your private life? What is it that you take for granted about your home without questioning it?

How has your faith in your sanctuary supported you? What are some examples of how that faith was justified?

How has your faith in your sanctuary not supported you? What are some examples of how your faith was misplaced and you were betrayed?

Jupiter, the Ruler of your Fourth House in Houses

The house occupied by the ruler of the Fourth House shows where you most rely on your foundation. The resources available in this house are essential to you, and they take priority. These resources keep your foundation strong and stable. This is also the house where you are the most conscious of the influence and expectations of your parents, and of your father in particular.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video lesson on Jupiter that explores the house that Jupiter, the Ruler of your Fourth House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by Jupiter, the Ruler of your Fourth House. Now, go back and revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience Jupiter as the ruler of your Fourth House, and notice how the house Jupiter occupies influences your understanding.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the First House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your First House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to grow using your untapped potential, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to build and test your faith, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to create a stable foundation for your life, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Second House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Second House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to grow using your untapped potential. You will spend money and use your talents to build and test your faith. You will spend money and use your talents to create a stable foundation for your life. And you will spend money and use your talents to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Third House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Third House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to grow using your untapped potential, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to build and test your faith, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to create a stable foundation for your life, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Fourth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Fourth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your sanctuary, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you grow using your untapped potential, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you build and test your faith, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you create a stable foundation for your life, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, because it's personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy may disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Fifth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Fifth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to grow using your untapped potential, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to build and test your faith, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to create a stable foundation for your life, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Sixth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Sixth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to grow using your untapped potential, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to build and test your faith, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to create a stable foundation for your life, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Seventh House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Seventh House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to grow using your untapped potential for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to build and test your faith for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to create a stable foundation for your life for you and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Eighth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Eighth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to grow using your untapped potential. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to build and test your faith. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to create a stable foundation for your life. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the in the Ninth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Ninth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to grow using your untapped potential because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to build and test your faith because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to create a stable foundation for your life because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the Tenth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Tenth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to grow using your untapped potential, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to build and test your faith, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to create a stable foundation for your life, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the Eleventh House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to grow using your untapped potential so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to build and test your faith so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to create a stable foundation for your life so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in the Twelfth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Fourth House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your growth, your faith, your foundation, and your sanctuary. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to grow using your untapped potential, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to build and test your faith, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to create a stable foundation for your life, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to protect your private sanctuary so you can rest and recharge your batteries, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.