

Jupiter Rules the Eleventh House

The Eleventh House is the house of acquisition. It contains all of the things you believe you need to obtain or acquire to be happy. It's the pursuit of happiness, but not the experience of happiness (which belongs to the First House). Friends are associated with the Eleventh House, but the original context of that term has shifted. Eleventh House friends are benefactors. These are the people who help you to reach your goals, attain your aspirations, and acquire what you think you need to be happy.

The Eleventh House is your ambitions and acquisitions.

The planet that rules your Eleventh House is what you believe you need to acquire to be happy. Your personal ambitions, aspirations, and dreams are really about embodying that planet, meeting its needs, and fully understanding how that Universal Puzzle Piece fits in your life. The first challenge is that you don't entirely believe that these qualities live inside you. You see them clearly in the outside world, and you believe that you need to go out and obtain them. Specifically, you believe that when you finally obtain those qualities, and realize your ambitions and your dreams, then you'll finally be happy. The Eleventh House is your pursuit of happiness; actual happiness belongs to the First House. But when you move into right relationship with the planet that rules your Eleventh House, you will realize that happiness is the journey, not the destination.

Everyone needs dreams. Dreams are what inspire you to take action. They can give your life meaning and purpose. Even impossible or unattainable dreams have value once you remember that they're not all-or-nothing scenarios. Your dream of winning American Idol probably won't come true, but what that dream is really about is the inspiration to sing and to make music. If you follow that call and begin to sing because singing makes you happy, the path could lead you anywhere. As you follow the path, you will set new goals and discover new dreams, and those dreams will become progressively more attainable. But remember that what your dreams are really about is expressing and meeting the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House. When you follow that star, your dreams can come true.

The Eleventh House is your benefactor.

The planet that rules your Eleventh House is your benefactor. A benefactor is more than just a friend; it's a friend with money. Benefactors are friends who are willing to invest in your happiness and your success. They provide material support to help you achieve your personal ambitions and aspirations. You experience your benefactors as other individuals, and often, the support they provide appears to come out of nowhere and to have nothing at all to do with you. But this is just the external appearance. Your real benefactor is the planet that rules your Eleventh House, and the amount of support and encouragement you experience depends on how well you meet the needs and learn the lessons of that planet.

You may not notice your benefactor because it doesn't always show up as a person, and the support you receive isn't always financial. Sometimes all you need to make progress towards your dreams and aspirations is to meet the needs of the planet that rules the Eleventh House. When you embody and express that energy and master those lessons, you advance towards your goals and your dreams get a little bit closer. Other times, because you have tuned into that energy, other people will show up in your life and provide you with encouragement and support. When you are in right relationship with the planet that rules your Eleventh House, your friends genuinely want to see you succeed. That may not translate into dollars and cents, but that's because that kind of support is priceless.

Jupiter Rules the Eleventh House

Your growth is your aspirations and acquisitions; your aspirations and acquisitions are your growth.

Growth is your aspiration: you hope to achieve it. But you don't believe that growth is within you. It exists somewhere in the world, and you hope to acquire it. You believe that when you achieve your aspirations and acquire growth, then you'll be happy. When you grow and expand in all areas of your life, you live your dreams and pursue your aspirations. Even if your goals are lofty and hard to attain, you still pursue them. The journey itself makes you so happy that the destination becomes less important. But when your growth is uneven and you are too much in some dimensions and not enough in others, your dreams are unattainable because you don't pursue them. You know you won't win American Idol, so you don't bother to sing at all. You set goals that are so high that you can't imagine reaching them, and then wonder why your life lacks any purpose. On a personal level, when you don't feel like you are growing, you are unhappy with your life, but you lack the inspiration to do anything about it. You think the only way to be happy is to realize your dreams, and you mistakenly believe that happiness only exists at the destination. Having ambitions and aspirations is important because pursuing your dreams gives meaning and purpose to your life. You believe that when you have inspiration and motivation to pursue your dreams, you won't feel limited, stuck, or restricted.

Growth is about fulfilling your potential in every dimension. The only way to track your growth is to compare where you are now to where you were in the past. When you fulfill your current potential, the outer limits of your potential automatically expand, which creates new opportunities so you never feel stuck. If you encounter a boundary and feel limited or constrained by it, this means that you have unexplored potential somewhere else. If you push past the boundary and reach for more before you have made full use of what you have, you will be out of balance. You will be too much in some dimensions and not enough in others. This is especially important with your aspirations and acquisitions. You dream about more, but the more you acquire, the more you desire. The only way to experience sufficiency is to make full use of what you already have.

The best way to evaluate your growth and locate your untapped potential is to engage with your aspirations and acquisitions. Consider your dreams and aspirations. Make sure you include youthful dreams that you may have abandoned long ago because you felt they were unreasonable. Look at your ambitions, past and present, with fresh eyes, and notice how they all involve acquiring growth and expansion. When you pursue growth, you are energized and motivated, and on the way to happiness. Choose a dream. Dust off one of your discarded dreams or create a new one, but be conscious that the dream is really about experiencing growth by accessing your untapped potential and making full use of your current resources. The more you experience balanced growth in every dimension, the more your dreams and aspirations will inspire and motivate you.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your growth and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your growth and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of a current dream or aspiration: something that you hope to accomplish or achieve. What role does growth play in that dream?

How would acquiring more growth help you become happy?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you attempt to acquire growth? Where do you think you lack it in your life, and what do you need to do in the world to acquire it?

How do you measure or evaluate growth with your aspirations and acquisitions? What do you use as a comparative reference?

Where do you feel that you are not enough with your aspirations and acquisitions? What are you basing this on? How will you know when you are enough?

Where do you feel that you are too much with your aspirations and acquisitions? What are you basing this on? What boundary did you cross and who created that boundary?

Your growth is your benefactor; your benefactor is your growth.

Growth is your benefactor. When you access your untapped potential, you receive tangible support that helps you pursue your ambitions and personal aspirations. Sometimes that support shows up out of the blue as unexpected money or opportunity, and other times that support shows up in the form of a friend who believes in you and is willing to lend a helping hand. When you grow and expand in all areas of your life, you are surrounded by support and encouragement. Other people are excited by your ambitions and your goals, and they are eager to help you to achieve them. Money shows up when you need it, and so does advice, guidance, and introductions to people who can help you even more. But when your growth is uneven and you are too much in some dimensions and not enough in others, you have to pursue your ambitions on your own. No one in your life offers you encouragement, let alone financial backing. Opportunities do not tend to work out, and no matter how hard you knock, doors remain closed to you. On a personal level, when you don't feel like you are growing, even your friends don't believe in you. They will probably listen to you talk about your dreams, but that's the extent of their support. They may not root for you to fail, but they don't expect you to succeed. You care about the support of your benefactors because they make it easier for you to achieve your dreams and ambitions. And you believe that when you achieve your goals, you won't feel limited, stuck, or restricted.

Growth is about fulfilling your potential in every dimension. The only way to track your growth is to compare where you are now to where you were in the past. When you fulfill your current potential, the outer limits of your potential automatically expand, which creates new opportunities so you never feel stuck. If you encounter a boundary and feel limited or constrained by it, this means that you have unexplored potential somewhere else. If you push past the boundary and reach for more before you have made full use of what you have, you will be out of balance. You will be too much in some dimensions and not enough in others. This is especially important with your benefactor. You expect your benefactor to provide you with more resources, but in fact your benefactor supports you by helping you take advantage of the resources you already have.

The best way to evaluate your growth and locate your untapped potential is to engage with your benefactor. Think back on your life and identify the people who have supported you by helping you to achieve your ambitions and aspirations. For the moment, focus on individuals who gave you some kind of tangible assistance, financial or otherwise. Consider that whatever form of help they provided, that help was really about accessing your untapped potential so you could grow and expand. They either helped you because of how well you were using your current resources, or they helped you by contributing to your resources so you could reach the next level. Now consider how you engage with growth in other parts of your life. You will discover a direct connection between how well you access your untapped potential and how much other people want to support you in your dreams and aspirations. The more you experience balanced growth in every dimension, the more material support you will receive to pursue your ambitions.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your growth and your benefactor resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your growth and your benefactor resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

How has growth functioned as your benefactor? How has it provided you with material support to pursue your personal ambitions and goals?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do the people who act as your benefactors use growth to support you?

How do you measure or evaluate growth with your benefactor? What do you use as a comparative reference?

Where do you feel that you are not enough with your benefactor? What are you basing this on? How will you know when you are enough?

Where do you feel that you are too much with your benefactor? What are you basing this on? What boundary did you cross and who created that boundary?

Your faith is your aspirations and acquisitions; your aspirations and acquisitions are your faith.

Faith is your aspiration: you hope to achieve it. But you don't believe that faith is within you. It exists somewhere in the world, and you hope to acquire it. You believe that when you achieve your aspirations and acquire faith, then you'll be happy. When you actively build your faith and access it on a regular basis, you live your dreams and pursue your aspirations. Even if your goals are lofty and hard to attain, you still pursue them. The journey itself makes you so happy that the destination becomes less important. But if you are not willing to test your faith, or even worse, if your faith is all for show and lacks a personal connection, your dreams are unattainable because you don't pursue them. You know you won't win American Idol, so you don't bother to sing at all. You set goals that are so high that you can't imagine reaching them, and then wonder why your life lacks any purpose. On a personal level, when you lack faith, you are unhappy with your life, but you lack the inspiration to do anything about it. You think the only way to be happy is to realize your dreams, and you mistakenly believe that happiness only exists at the destination. Having ambitions and aspirations is important because pursuing your dreams gives meaning and purpose to your life. You believe that when you have inspiration and motivation to pursue your dreams, you won't have to worry about being betrayed.

Sometimes the truth is just beyond the limits of your reality. You can grasp the idea that the Universe is infinite and all of your needs can easily be met, but you don't see the evidence of that in your life. This is what faith is for. Faith is how you build a bridge between your reality and the truth. Faith begins with an idea or a belief. You invest your energy in the idea so that it becomes real to you, and then you accept it without question. When your faith is built on objective truth, it will always support you. But if your faith lacks a foundation of truth, when you need it most, it will abandon you, leaving you broken and betrayed. You invest your faith in your aspirations and acquisitions. On some level, you have faith that when you achieve your dreams, you will finally be happy. This faith supports you to the extent that it motivates you to pursue your ambitions, but it can also betray you because it keeps happiness at a distance and denies the truth that happiness lives within you.

You can become conscious of your faith by engaging with your aspirations and acquisitions. Consider your dreams and aspirations. Make sure you include youthful dreams that you may have abandoned long ago because you felt they were unreasonable. Look at your ambitions, past and present, with fresh eyes, and notice how they all involve acquiring faith. When you pursue your faith, you are energized and motivated, and on the way to happiness. Choose a dream. Dust off one of your discarded dreams or create a new one, but be conscious that the dream is really about experiencing your faith. Now adjust your faith so that it aligns with the truth that happiness lives within you, and that your journey towards your dreams and aspirations is actually your journey within to discover the source of your happiness. The more you invest your faith in the truth, the more your dreams and aspirations will inspire and motivate you.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your faith and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your faith and your aspirations and acquisitions resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

Choose an example of a current dream or aspiration: something that you hope to accomplish or achieve. What role does faith play in that dream?

How would acquiring more faith help you become happy?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you attempt to acquire faith? Where do you think you lack it in your life, and what do you need to do in the world to acquire it?

How do you invest your faith in your aspirations and acquisitions? What is it that you take for granted about your aspirations and acquisitions without questioning it?

How has your faith in your aspirations and acquisitions supported you? What are some examples of how that faith was justified?

How has your faith in your aspirations and acquisitions not supported you? What are some examples of how your faith was misplaced and you were betrayed?

Your faith is your benefactor; your benefactor is your faith.

Faith is your benefactor. When you build and test your faith, you receive tangible support that helps you pursue your ambitions and personal aspirations. Sometimes that support shows up out of the blue as unexpected money or opportunity, and other times that support shows up in the form of a friend who believes in you and is willing to lend a helping hand. When you actively build your faith and access it on a regular basis, you are surrounded by support and encouragement. Other people are excited by your ambitions and your goals, and they are eager to help you to achieve them. Money shows up when you need it, and so does advice, guidance, and introductions to people who can help you even more. But if you are not willing to test your faith, or even worse, if your faith is all for show and lacks a personal connection, you have to pursue your ambitions on your own. No one in your life offers you encouragement, let alone financial backing. Opportunities do not tend to work out, and no matter how hard you knock, doors remain closed to you. On a personal level, when you lack faith, even your friends don't believe in you. They will probably listen to you talk about your dreams, but that's the extent of their support. They may not root for you to fail, but they don't expect you to succeed. You care about the support of your benefactors because they make it easier for you to achieve your dreams and ambitions. And you believe that when you achieve your goals, you won't have to worry about being betrayed.

Sometimes the truth is just beyond the limits of your reality. You can grasp the idea that the Universe is infinite and all of your needs can easily be met, but you don't see the evidence of that in your life. This is what faith is for. Faith is how you build a bridge between your reality and the truth. Faith begins with an idea or a belief. You invest your energy in the idea so that it becomes real to you, and then you accept it without question. When your faith is built on objective truth, it will always support you. But if your faith lacks a foundation of truth, when you need it most, it will abandon you, leaving you broken and betrayed. You invest your faith in your benefactor, and your benefactor provides you with the experience of faith. When your benefactor supports you, they invest their faith in you, and know that you will achieve your goals and aspirations. But you must invest your faith in yourself, and know that you will discover the source of happiness that lives within you.

You can become conscious of your faith by engaging with your benefactor. Think back on your life and identify the people who have supported you by helping you to achieve your ambitions and aspirations. For the moment, focus on individuals who gave you some kind of tangible assistance, financial or otherwise. Consider that whatever form of help they provided, that help was really about faith. They helped you because of your faith, they helped you by contributing to your faith, or they helped you by investing their faith in you. Now consider how you engage with faith in other parts of your life. You will discover a direct connection between how well you build and test your faith and how much other people want to support you in your dreams and aspirations. The more you invest your faith in the truth, the more material support you will receive to pursue your ambitions.

LIGHT BULB QUESTIONS

What part of the description of your faith and your benefactor resonated the most with you? Where do you see this in your life? How does it show up for you?

What part of the description of your faith and your benefactor resonated the least with you? What about that description doesn't seem to apply to you and why?

How has faith functioned as your benefactor? How has it provided you with material support to pursue your personal ambitions and goals?

PUZZLE QUESTIONS

How do you experience faith in the people who act as your benefactors? How do they embody it? How do they use it to support and encourage you?

How do you invest your faith in your benefactor? What is it that you take for granted about your benefactor without questioning it?

How has your faith in your benefactor supported you? What are some examples of how that faith was justified?

How has your faith in your benefactor not supported you? What are some examples of how your faith was misplaced and you were betrayed?

Jupiter, the Ruler of your Eleventh House in Houses

The house occupied by the Ruler of the Eleventh House shows where you look for happiness. This is where you pursue your ambitions and your aspirations. You make use of the resources available in this house to acquire the things that you believe will make you happy and to realize your personal goals and dreams.

JOURNAL QUESTIONS & INSTRUCTIONS

Begin by reviewing the chapter in the video lesson on Jupiter that explores the house that Jupiter, the Ruler of your Eleventh House occupies. Then locate and read the description of the house occupied by Jupiter, the Ruler of your Eleventh House. Now, revisit each of the journal questions about how you experience Jupiter as the ruler of your Eleventh House, and notice how the house Jupiter occupies influences your understanding.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the First House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your First House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your personality and outer appearance. The resources of the First House include your health, your happiness, your appearance, and your very identity. You will use your personal interests and happiness to grow using your untapped potential, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to build and test your faith, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. You will use your personal interests and happiness to pursue your dreams, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. And you will use your personal interests and happiness to attract the support of benefactors, and other people will notice this in your appearance and your personality. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your First House, affecting your avatar, your outer appearance, your happiness, and how much you enjoy your hobbies and interests. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your First House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Second House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Second House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your money and resources. The resources of the Second House include your money, your personal possessions, and the skills and talents you have that can be used to earn money. You will spend money and use your talents to grow using your untapped potential. You will spend money and use your talents to build and test your faith. You will spend money and use your talents to pursue your dreams. And you will spend money and use your talents to attract the support of benefactors. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Second House, specifically because they encourage you to spend your money, but they don't necessarily help you to earn more money or connect to the truth of your prosperity. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Second House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Third House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Third House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your comfort zone. The resources of your Third House are all local, close, and familiar. You can communicate to your network to ask for support, but you will only call people you already know and have worked with before. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to grow using your untapped potential, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to build and test your faith, and you rarely consider new options. You rely on your familiar habits and local resources to pursue your dreams, and you rarely consider new options. And rely on your familiar habits and local resources to attract the support of benefactors, and you rarely consider new options. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Third House, creating changes to your comfort zone that make it less familiar and less comfortable, and forcing you to pay attention to your habits and routines. In turn, this may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Third House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Fourth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Fourth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your private life. The resources of the Fourth House include your private and personal life, your home, real estate, tradition, and family connections. You do not want to be noticed when you grow using your untapped potential, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you build and test your faith, because it's personal and private. You do not want to be noticed when you pursue your dreams, because it's personal and private. And you do not want to be noticed when you attract the support of benefactors, because it's personal and private. Your pursuit of privacy may disrupt your Fourth House, shaking the very foundation of your life. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fourth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Fifth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Fifth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your creativity and fun. The resources of the Fifth House include games, gambling, entertainment, art, creativity, and all forms of amusement and recreation. You are willing to take creative risks to grow using your untapped potential, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to build and test your faith, and you expect to have fun in the process. You are willing to take creative risks to pursue your dreams, and you expect to have fun in the process. And you are willing to take creative risks to attract the support of benefactors, and you expect to have fun in the process. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Fifth House, especially if you don't feel that you have been creative enough or if you're not having fun. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Fifth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Sixth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Sixth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your job, your workplace environment, and your relationships with co-workers and employees. The resources of the Sixth House include hard work and selfless service. You expect to work hard to grow using your untapped potential, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to build and test your faith, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. You expect to work hard to pursue your dreams, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. And you expect to work hard to attract the support of benefactors, and you rarely get recognized or rewarded for it. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Sixth House, especially because you are always looking for ways to lighten the workload, so you may try to hire someone to do the work for you, or failing that, you may create illness so you can call in sick. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Sixth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Seventh House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Seventh House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your one-to-one relationships. The resources of the Seventh House appear to be other individuals because you project everything associated with planets in your Seventh House on other people and you don't recognize that those qualities live in you. You expect other individuals to grow using your untapped potential for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to build and test your faith for you and may blame them if they don't. You expect other individuals to pursue your dreams for you and may blame them if they don't. And you expect other individuals to attract the support of benefactors for you and may blame them if they don't. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Seventh House by creating difficulties in your one-to-one relationships. And while the problems will appear to be about other people, they're really your own issues. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Seventh House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Eighth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Eighth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your debts and shared resources. The resources of the Eighth house are other people's money, values, and opinions. This money is available to you in the form of loans, investments, or simply credit card debt. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to grow using your untapped potential. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to build and test your faith. You will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to pursue your dreams. And you will collaborate, use shared resources, ask for favors, or use other people's money to attract the support of benefactors. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eighth House because they will increase your awareness of your debt, both personal (what you owe other people) and financial (the money you owe to others). This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eighth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the in the Ninth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Ninth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your danger zone. The resources of the Ninth House are all foreign, distant, new, unfamiliar, and unknown to you. They include experts and authorities that can offer wisdom and knowledge, such as teachers, religious leaders, lawyers, and doctors. You always require new information to grow using your untapped potential because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to build and test your faith because what you already know is not sufficient. You always require new information to pursue your dreams because what you already know is not sufficient. And you always require new information to attract the support of benefactors because what you already know is not sufficient. These behaviors may cause disruption to your Ninth House because the new information you acquire may challenge and alter your beliefs. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Ninth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the Tenth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Tenth House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your public and professional image. The resources of the Tenth House include your reputation, your public image, and the passwords to all of your social media accounts. You want to be famous for your ability to grow using your untapped potential, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to build and test your faith, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. You want to be famous for your ability to pursue your dreams, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. And you want to be famous for your ability to attract the support of benefactors, so you broadcast it to the world and share it on social media. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Tenth House and affect both your personal and your professional reputation. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Tenth House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the Eleventh House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Eleventh House, you encounter your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor in your ambitions and aspirations. The resources of the Eleventh House are your benefactors: friends, colleagues, and teammates who are in a position to support you and help you to acquire the things you believe will make you happy. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to grow using your untapped potential so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to build and test your faith so you can acquire happiness. You depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to pursue your dreams so you can acquire happiness. And you depend on the support and encouragement of your friends and benefactors to attract the support of benefactors so you can acquire happiness. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Eleventh House and affect not only your ambitions and aspirations, but also the level of support you receive from your friends and benefactors. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Eleventh House.

Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in the Twelfth House

With Jupiter, the Ruler of the Eleventh House in your Twelfth House you are unconscious of your growth, your faith, your aspirations and acquisitions, and your benefactor. The Twelfth House is above the horizon, so everything about planets in the Twelfth House is visible to others, but it's all in your blind spot, so you're the last to know about it. The resources of the Twelfth House include your hidden motivations, your unconscious programming, your shadow self, and your personal demons. You are not conscious of what motivates you to grow using your untapped potential, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to build and test your faith, and it will have unexpected consequences. You are not conscious of what motivates you to pursue your dreams, and it will have unexpected consequences. And you are not conscious of what motivates you to attract the support of benefactors, and it will have unexpected consequences. These behaviors may cause disruptions to your Twelfth House, causing resentment and creating hidden enemies. This may affect your ability to meet the needs of the planet that rules your Twelfth House.