

Element Languages

The four elements are Fire, Earth, Air, and Water. The Fire signs are Aries, Leo, and Sagittarius; the Earth signs are Taurus, Virgo, and Capricorn; the Air signs are Gemini, Libra, and Aquarius; and the Water signs are Cancer, Scorpio, and Pisces. The element language describes the plane of expression for a planet, and the qualities associated with each element determine what you expect and what you will fail to notice or recognize when expressing the Universal and personal puzzle pieces associated with a planet.

Fire Language

When a planet speaks a Fire language, it views each of its associated puzzle pieces as something that you experience and actively participate in.

The language of Fire expresses in the realm of life and spirit. Fire is outgoing, energizing, and transforming, and it's also the most self-motivated of the elemental languages. Planets in Fire signs are concerned with the question of identity, and view everything through a personal context. A planet in a Fire sign will always act out of self-interest, if only because when a planet speaks a Fire language, it doesn't always realize that other people may see things differently.

Planets in Fire signs recharge through physical activity, especially physical activity outdoors and in the Sun, which is ultimately the strongest representation of the element of Fire.

Earth Language

When a planet speaks a Earth language, it views each of its associated puzzle pieces as something tangible, physical, and practical that you can touch.

The language of Earth expresses in the realm of form on the physical and material plane. Earth is practical, substantial, and material, and concerned with matter and how to deal with it. Earth is passive and receptive; it must be acted on and formed by external energies. Earth stays in one place and does not move, and when a planet speaks an Earth language, it becomes more stable and grounded. Issues of practical value and material worth motivate planets that speak an Earth language.

Planets in Earth signs recharge by connecting with the earth. This includes anything that puts them in direct contact with nature.

Air Language

When a planet speaks an Air language, it views each of its associated puzzle pieces as an abstract, intellectual, mental, or social construct.

The language of Air expresses in the mental, social, and intellectual realms. Air moves with great speed, traveling horizontally across the surface and forming connections between all that it encounters. Planets that speak the language of Air are the most comfortable in the realm of abstract ideas and concepts, symbols, and communication. All of the Air signs are double signs, and planets in Air signs involve relationships: with the environment (Gemini), with other individuals (Libra), or with society (Aquarius).

Planets in Air signs recharge through social and mental activity, but also through direct experience of air. This can include everything from deep breathing to kite flying, to riding a motorcycle or roller coaster and feeling the rush of the wind.

Water Language

When a planet speaks a Water language, it views each of its associated puzzle pieces as a feeling that you may not be able to describe or define, but you know when you encounter it.

The language of Water expresses on the emotional plane. Water sinks, always seeking the lowest and deepest point, and water will continue to flow until it is contained. Water has no shape or structure of its own, and instead takes on the characteristics and form of its container. Planets that speak a Water language seek to express the deepest, most primal emotions, and to explore the needs and longings of the soul.

Planets in Water signs recharge through intense emotional connections, as well as through proximity to water.

QUALITIES of the ELEMENTS

The four elements represent the four realms of existence. Fire is the spiritual realm; Water is the emotional realm; Air is the mental realm; and Earth is the material realm. Each realm has distinct qualities and functions, and yet connections and commonalities exist between each of the four elements.

The diagram on the following page illustrates the most important qualities and connections between the four elements.

Vertical Axis Polarities: Fire & Water vs. Air & Earth

Subjective (Fire & Water) vs. Objective (Air & Earth)

Subjective means based on personal opinions and bias, while objective means being free from personal opinions or bias. It's important not to confuse this axis with feeling vs. thinking. Thoughts can be either objective or subjective, and so can feelings.

Personal (Fire & Water) vs. Impersonal (Air & Earth)

This axis is closely related to subjective vs. objective, but it's not the same thing. When something is personal, your subjective perspective is focused on how things affect you. Personal can also extend to your subjective ideas of how things affect other people (although mostly this involves you projecting your ideas of how you would be affected). When something is impersonal, it's objective, but it's also specifically unconcerned with how it will affect you (or anyone else).

Horizontal Axis Polarities: Fire & Air vs. Water & Earth
Abstract (Fire & Air) vs. Concrete (Water & Earth)

Fire and Air are abstract. They are concerned with ideas, concepts, and visions, and they are motivated by creative potential. Water and Earth are concrete. They are concerned with application, execution, and expression. They are motivated by creative outcome.

Expressive (Fire & Air) vs. Receptive (Water & Earth)

Fire and Air are expressive in nature. They project energy, ideas, and thoughts and embody the masculine principle of creation. Water and Earth are receptive in nature. They receive impressions, which they bring into manifestation. Water and Earth embody the feminine principle of creation.

Element Language Template

These exercises will help you to assemble the Element Language Templates. You will fill in the blank with the relevant Universal Puzzle Piece or personal puzzle piece that you are considering. You will replace the Element variables with the appropriate options from the list below.

You view _____ as [Element 1]

To pursue _____ you [Element 2]

You expect _____ to be [Element 3a] and may not recognize it when it is [Element 3b].

ELEMENT 1: Plane of Existence

Notes & Observations

This is the completed Notes & Observations for Lucille Ball. This uses the process (and templates) demonstrated in the Natal Interpretation Synthesis Class, so these notes are slightly different from the earlier version of the notes in the Natal Interpretation Foundations Class workbook.

I have omitted my observations (which were included in the original example in the workbook). This gives you the opportunity to work from the notes and create your own observations for Lucille Ball, and to build on those observations as you incorporate the new tools and templates included in this program.

I have followed the precise model of the template, and kept the color-coding so that the text shown in red represents the fill-in-the-blank answers to the variables in the template and the text shown in blue represents the fill-in-the-blank answers to the house-related (personal puzzle piece) components.
